Axe Killer Caught!

Victim's Wife Tells: 'How I Saved Baby'

Fights With Madman for Her Life

By MRS. MILDRED BARRIS
As Told to James F. McEnaney, Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

My baby and I would have been killed, too, if I hadn't felt something was wrong, just in time.

If grandpa had ever got us back into the house we'd have met the same fate as Paul and Arthur.

When I broke away and ran for the woods, that saved us.

But I'll try to start telling it from the beginning. It seems so horrible, though. Almost like a nightmare. I can hardly talk about it.

We had a late lunch yesterday. About six o'clock I was getting supper ready. But Paul, my husband, said:

"Let's go down and do some lumber sticking (that means

Stocks Up; Talk Dollar Devaluation

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP) — Light buying gave the stock market a lift as much as $2 in some leaders today.

The sweeping victory of the administration in Senate passage of the pump-priming bill, brokers said, tended to revive inflationary psychology. Further gossip was heard on possible devaluation of the dollar.

Alleged axe-slayer of two, John Henry Gray, 54, of Lowell, a Massachusetts paroled convict, was captured after a battle with state troopers at Lebanon, N. H., today.

In Axe Tragedy—Mrs. Arthur Cullen grieves with her two surviving sons, Robert, 2, and Francis, 6, after her son, Arthur, Jr., 9, was hacked to death with Paul Barris, 24, in Grafton, N. H.

Arthur Cullen, Jr.
(Boston Evening American Photo)

He confessed, police announced, that last night he hacked to death Paul Barris, 25, and Arthur Cullen, 9, in the cellar of a farmhouse at Grafton, N. H.

"I don't know what made me do it," he was quoted in the confession.

Gray is the step grandfather of Barris' widow.

Barris was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Barris, of Arlington. His father is a well-to-do Charlestown lumber dealer. The Cullen boy was a half-brother of the slain man's widow, the former Mildred Rivers of Lowell.

Discovery that the alleged slayer is a Massachusets parolee aroused New Hampshire authorities. The double murder attributed to him were the third and fourth homicides committed in New Hampshire by paroled Bay State prisoners in less than a year.

HUNTED 6 MONTHS

Gray was on parole from the State Farm at Bridgewater and had been sought for six months for violation of his parole regulations.

Gray served 13 sentences at Bridgewater Farm, 11 for drunkenness and two for vagrancy. He first went to Bridgewater in Oc-

Hull Pleads: 'End War Barbarities'

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The United States, condemning bombing of civilians, offered co-operation with other nations today in "humanizing" the rules of warfare.

The willingness and desire of this country to join in such an effort was expressed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in a significant address on foreign affairs in Nashville, Tenn., last night. He also announced the readiness of the United States, just beginning a huge naval expansion program, to reduce and limit armaments, if other nations will do the same.

A few hours before Hull's address Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, had denounced in a statement here the bombings in Spain and China, which have killed thousands of women and children. Welles called such warfare "barbarous" and added:

"Any general bombing of an extensive area wherein there resides a large population engaged in peaceful pursuits is contrary to every principle of law and humanity."

READY TO JOIN

The state department said Hull's address had been dispatched to world capitals and would be available if foreign offices wanted it.

In addition to asserting this country's willingness to limit arms and agree to a humane code of war practices the secretary of state said the United States was prepared to join other nations:

(1) "In directing every effort toward restoration and strengthening of sound and constructive international relationships.

(2) "In exploring all other methods of revitalizing the spirit of international co-operation."

Britain to Probe Air Massacres

LONDON, June 4 (INS)—R. S. Butler, British Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, was on record today with an announcement that the government is attempting to end war massacres in China and Spain.

Britain, he said, is considering asking neutral governments to participate in an international commission, which would visit and investigate scenes of aerial bombardments and inform the world whether these attacks were actually directed against military objectives or against civilian populations.

Charge Priest Exiled in Defy To Cardenas

MEXICO CITY, June 4 (AP)—Dynamiting of a freight train in San Luis Potosi and fresh complications of the religious issue in Tabasco confronted the government today.

A message to President Cardenas signed by a "Committee of Tabascans" charged authorities of that state had arrested and "expelled by plane" a Catholic priest, Father Hidalgo of Villa Hermosa.

It was at Villa Hermosa that six persons were killed Monday in a clash with authorities when Catholics gathered to restore a church destroyed during the regime of Tomas Gar Ido Canabal.

The message charged the reported expulsion was in defiance of statements from the president and the interior department assuring there would be no persecution of Catholics.

The department's statement published yesterday, and regarded as a rebuke to Governor Manuel Fernandez Manero of Tabasco, said pointedly:

"All authorities have express instructions to abstain from any persecution."

The committee declared the expulsion had "aroused popular indignation."

The train wreck gave notice to the government its troubles with roving bands of rebels were not yet over, though Rebel Chieftain Saturnino Cedillo has fled.

Czechs Regret Nazi Incidents

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, June 4 (AP)—In response to a German protest, Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta today expressed the Czechoslovak government's regret at new incidents in which members of the Germanic minority were victims.

Ernst Eisenlohr, German minister to Praha, protested yesterday over seizure of a Nazi emblem from a Sudeten German couple at Niederullersdorf by Czechoslovak soldiers.

He also objected to the alleged mistreatment of a German at Maehrisch-Schoenberg.

The foreign minister assured Eisenlohr that those responsible for the incidents had been arrested and all involved would be punished.

Soviet-China Pact Concluded?

LONDON, June 4 (INS)—Persistent reports that Soviet Russia and China have concluded a new agreement involving military aid to the Chinese armies received new impetus today.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from The Hague, Netherlands, stated Sun Fo, Chinese ambassador to Moscow, had arrived there after "allegedly concluding a nine-point agreement."

Under terms of the pact, the dispatch said, the Soviets will enjoy a "privileged position" in China in exchange for extension of "material assistance already being given."

The pact was first reported in a special dispatch to the Daily Mail from Riga. This dispatch reported the agreement had been signed and that it provided for immediate dispatch to China of two motorized divisions of Soviet troops and 72 airplanes.

The Daily Mail stated also the agreement bound Russia to send a large number of Communist specialists charged with the task of reorganizing the administration of China and directing propaganda against Japan.

The Soviet foreign office and Chinese government officials issued formal denials of the report.

COURT LOVE On Steps Banned By County

Middlesex County Commissioners, long famed for their pecuniary habits, today extended their economies into the realms of romance—and with no apologies.

There was eyebrow lifting when the commissioners saved $2.29 last year by halting the practice of initialing the scrubwomen's buckets.

FROWN ON LOVE

Economy was the keynote two years ago when they saved $7.57 annually by refusing to keep a supply of matches in the sheriff's room.

But today, even their most ardent supporters had run out of excuses. The commissioners have frowned on love—without even the courtesy of an appropriate appropriation.

When spring comes to East Cambridge, the young couples do a lot of their cooing on the steps and under the great arches of the East Cambridge courthouse buildings.

MERE FLUTTER

But special police officers cost money and the janitors at the courthouse are without police authority, or they were until today. Admonitions to go somewhere else and whisper sweet nothings have created but a flutter among young lovers who, when shooed, promptly settled down on the next flight of steps.

With one stroke of the pen, the commissioners changed all this. The total cost was the small price of 10 badges, about $2.50. Janitors are now authorized to serve as special policemen and their word is law.

Ah, what is love?

Drenched Girl's Parents

Demand Tech Men Quenched

Parents of a pretty 18-year-old Cambridge girl, struck and knocked down from her bicycle by bags of water thrown from a Technology dormitory last night, demanded immediate drastic action from police and college officials today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCabe of York street told police their daughter, Anna, had been riding along Ames street, Cambridge, with a friend and was greeted by a barrage of large water bags from the fourth floor of the dormitory.

The girl, they said, was drenched by the attack, her glasses were knocked off and she was thrown to the street. Hysterical, she and her friend, Joan W. Ozz, 18, of Boston, went to the home of President Karl T. Compton of Technology, but he was not there. They left word of their plight.

Once the McCabe girl arrived home, her parents said, she was overcome by chill and the bruises of her fall so that a doctor was summoned.

The parents, President Compton and Chief of Police Timothy F. Leahy were expected to confer today for identification of the culprits and subsequent penalties.

In a similar outburst last Monday night six Tech students were arrested after a wild riot.

Shuffle 39 Street Cars in Bandit Hunt

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—It took 65 policemen and four trolley motormen to capture Joseph Scaffa, suspect in a $2100 holdup.

Scaffa fought a running gun battle with police, who cornered him in a street car barn.

There were 39 trolley cars in the barn. The motormen methodically backed out 38, and police found Scaffa hiding under the last car.

Poor Little Rich Gloria Is Graduated

GLORIA VANDERBILT
Alone on Her Graduation Day

ROSLYN, L. I., June 4—Gloria Vanderbilt was truly a poor little rich girl today, as she was graduated from the exclusive Greenville school here alone and unattended—except for her private chauffeur.

While relatives and friends of the other pupils bustled with activity for the exercises—fixing little Johnny's tie or Mary's curl—Gloria's loneliness was the more evident.

Her mother, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, is on her way to this country on the Queen Mary. Her aunt, Lady Furness, remained in New York lest she meet Gloria's other aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, at the exercises. But Mrs. Whitney did not attend, either.

So once again little Gloria, one of the country's wealthiest heiresses, was alone.

According to neighbors, she had grown increasingly bored with her sequestered life on the great 15,000-acre estate of the Whitneys which borders the school grounds. On this great estate are the homes of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, C. V. "Sonny" Whitney, the McCullough Millers, the Barklie Henrys and the Leonard Elmhirsts.

Rarely have the owners been at home. Recently, in fact, Gloria has been the only member of the family and has lived with a host of servants who keep the vast estate in order.

Once she tried to run away, neighbors said, but she didn't get beyond the grounds.

Perhaps Gloria did not mind being graduated alone—she may be used to loneliness by this time.

'KATIE' SILENT Love Hepburn Secret

HARTFORD, Ct., June 4 (INS) — Connecticut's "Katie" Hepburn talked a little about golf, a little less about her motion picture future, and still less about her romance with Howard Hughes in an interview given International News Service today.

"I refuse to discuss my personal affairs with anyone," said the Hollywood star, here on a vacation.

And by "personal affairs" the red-haired actress meant rumors of her marriage to Hughes, millionaire sportsman and producer.

The vivacious Connecticut girl had nothing to say about reports that she was aiding Hughes in planning a round-the-world flight or that she was going to accompany him on such a flight.

SHOOTS IN 98

Playing in a foursome at the exclusive Hartford Golf Club, Miss Hepburn, dressed in brown slacks, white shirt and tan gabardine belted sports jocket, her red hair blwoing wild, went around in 98.

Her playing companions were her father, Dr. Thomas N. Hepburn, prominent physician; her brother, Jack, and Mary Bird, Hartford debutante.

"I don't know anything about it," said Dr. Hepburn when queried as to his daughter's marriage plans.

MUSTERY BEOND

Miss Hepburn, labeled as "box-office poison" only a few weeks ago by several independent theater owners, has no qualms about the future of her motion picture career. Although under contract to no studio, she is returning to the Coast.

"I expect to be back in Hollywood in six weeks," she said.

Miss Hepburn was greeted at the 18th hole by a blond six-footer, about 27, who accompanied her to the clubhouse and later left in an automobile with her.

Attaches at the club said they did not know who he was

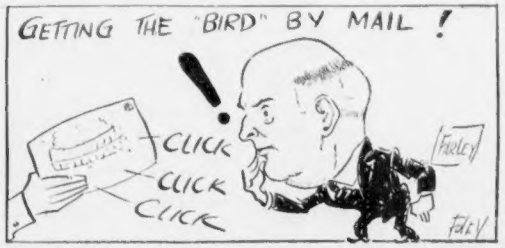
False Teeth Laugh Last

WASHINGTON, June 4 (INS)—Five sets of mail-order false teeth snapped back at Postmaster James A. "Big Jim" Farley today and won for Dr. Sylvan B. Heininger of Chicago the right to continue his false-teeth-by-mail business.

Court to restrain Farley and his postmasters from putting the order into effect.

At a hearing before Justice Peyton Gordon the inspectors admitted they had not applied for adjustments of the teeth, nor had they taken advantage of Dr. Heininger's offer of "money back" if they were not satisfied. And Dr. Heininger introduced evidence to show he had 3700 satisfied customers.

The court ordered Farley to revoke the fraud order.



The five sets of teeth were ordered by mail—by five postal inspectors. They claimed none of the sets fit, and Farley issued a "fraud" order against Dr. Heininger.

Dr. Heininger filed suit in the District of Columbia U. S. Circuit

Parolee Seized In Slayings

tober, 1925, and his last commitment was August 26, 1936. He was released in October, 1937.

His capture climaxed an intensive nine-hour manhunt following the slayings which took place at the Barris lumber farm where he had been employed as a wood-chopper since January.

Barris and his wife's little half-brother were chopped down by Gray, police said, while Mrs. Barris sat a short distance away in her automobile nursing her five-weeks-old son, Paul, Jr.

She was beaten by Gray while she held her baby in her arms, and apparently narrowly escaped the fate of her husband and brother, police said.

The hunt that followed Mrs. Barris' alarm extended into Massachusetts but Gray, apparently hitching rides along the highway, was trailed into Lebanon shortly after daybreak and there found by New Hampshire troopers Eugene Lorion and Fred Berwick, hiding behind a building.

They chased and captured him. In a fist fight that followed for 10 minutes, all three were marked up before the alleged slayer was subdued.

All principals in the killing were until recently residents of Massachusetts.

RETURN TO HOUSE

The murders were committed, according to police, less than ten minutes after Mrs. Barris, her husband and brother and Gray had started to leave the house.

Paul Barris had suggested doing a lumber-piling chore before sitting down to supper. Mrs. Barris had prepared.

Gray, lagging behind, came up to the automobile and suggested to Barris they would need a wrench to chain the piled lumber.

Barris jumped from the automobile, went into the house to find the wrench, followed by Gray.

Ten minutes passed and young Cullen, seized with boyish curiosity, decided to go into the house to find out what was causing the delay.

WIFE ANXIOUS

Ten minutes more passed. Mrs. Barris, nursing her baby, had already become curious over the delay in finding the wrench.

Finally from the doorway came Gray. His hands dripping with blood, his shirt bloodstained, he walked to the automobile and said to Mrs. Barris:

"Come on inside. I just had to kill a rat. Paul has got it inside."

Sensing something was wrong by the appearance of her step grandfather, Mrs. Barris, holding her child tightly in her arms, jumped from the automobile and ran down the country roadway that eventually leads to the main road in Canaan.

Gray caught her after a chase of 100 yards, struck her in the face and then dragged her back toward the scene of his two previous crimes.

On the threshold of the murder house, Mrs. Barris, in a last desperate effort to escape from the killer and her captor, kicked him and forced him to drop his grip on her.

She ran into the woodlands still clutching the baby in her arms and remained there for more than an hour before she could muster strength and courage to leave the woodlands and go for aid.

Once again on the highway she walked more than a half mile to the home of George Church and pleaded with him to go to the house and see what had happened to her husband and her half-brother.

TRAIL OF BLOOD

Church rushed to the Barris home, entered and followed a trail of blood that led down the cellar stairs. He came upon first the body of the Cullen boy, his head split, body dismembered.

Looking farther into the cellar, he found the body of Barris. Like the Cullen youngster, Barris also had been struck on the head with an axe and his body had been mutilated.

Sheriff Claude M. Murray organized a police and civilian posse in a hunt for Gray.

With this lead, the authorities covered every road. Finally they got a break from Harrison Rhodes, a constable who said he had driven Gray to Enfield to catch a train north. Rhodes was not aware of the crime.

Gray had made the train into White River Junction and from there they traced him to Lebanon. He stepped into a diner in Lebanon and an alert night manager recognized him from his description and notified the police.

Ten minutes later they found him.

Father Too Poor To Return Body

Arthur Ellsworth Cullen, nine-year-old Lowell parochial school pupil, begged for the vacation trip which brought him a tragic death at Grafton, N. H.

Only 16 days ago the blond youngster, oldest of five children, knelt in his first communion. The trip to the country was his reward.

Today, while "Sonny Boy" lay a broken victim of a madman's rage, the Cullen family sought aid desperately to bring his body back to his second-floor tenement home at 207 Broadway, Lowell.

HASN'T A DIME

Shaken by grief, the victim's father, Arthur Cullen, asked aid of police, friends—anyone—to return his son's body, nearly 100 miles away.

"I haven't a dime," he sobbed. "How can I get my boy?"

He told of a trip to the Lowell police station for help. He was told he should call New Hampshire medical authorities.

But Cullen has been out of work a long time. He couldn't even telephone.

Bewildered and moaning her loss, Mrs. Lillian Cullen gathered her four other young children around her. None of them realized what had happened although "Sonny Boy's" oldest brother comforted his grief-stricken parents with encouraging words about "God" and "Heaven."

LITTLE CHILD'S COMFORT

Other children are Francis, 6, Shirley, 4, John, 5, and Robert, 2.

"It's all right Daddy, 'Sonny Boy' is in heaven now," was the offering of Francis.

"Heaven? I can hardly believe there is a heaven!" the torn father mouned.

"Yes there is! That's where God stays," was the assurance of the six-year-old brother.

Of Gray, the killer, the father said:

"I can't understand it.

"He was good to the kids even when he was drinking."

"But when he drank, he always got into trouble but we never dreamed that such a thing as this could happen.

GOOD TO CHILDREN

"John Gray was a kind of grandfather to our kids. He was the husband of my wife's sister, now dead.

"I don't know why it was but when we would lose all patience with him, the kids would take his part. They all seemed to be crazy about him and he always had been good to them.

"I guess it must have been the same old story—liquor. That's what brought him to all his trouble and brought him the time he served."

Meanwhile, friends of Arthur Cullen were trying to borrow an automobile for the trip to his dead son.

Wife's Own Story Of Maniac Killings piling up sticks of wood) before we eat."

DIDN'T COME BACK

I went out in the car with baby and my brother, Arthur. We sat in the car. My husband came out, and grandpa.

But my husband said:

"I've forgotten the monkey wrench. I want to take that along. I'll go and get it."

He went back into the house and Grandpa went after him.

When they didn't come back, I sent my brother in to hurry them up.

I sat in the car nursing little Paul. I didn't think anything was the matter. I thought they were all looking for the wrench, so I wasn't so nervous. Gramp had never shown any signs of being vicious and we had never had any quarrel with him. He seemed happy to be with us.

After what seemed like 20 minutes, Gramp come out of the house. I noticed as he walked towards the car his right hand was covered with blood. I saw what appeared to be blood on his shirt.

I hadn't heard any cries for help. There was a sound coming from the house. He must have hit them on the head from behind so they had no chance to shout for help.

"I KILLED A RAT"

Gramp came right up to the car and I said to him:

"Gramp, what has happened. Where did all that blood come from?"

He said:

"Millie, I just killed a rat. I had a terrible time. Come in and see it. I just put it in the kitchen. It was the biggest rat I ever killed."

There was something about the look on Gramp's face that made me frightened and I crushed my baby close to me and jumped out of the automobile on the other side and ran down the street. I was frightened.

I ran down the lane about 100 yards and he was after me. I didn't know whether to drop the baby or not. I was afraid he would kill him. I knew he must have suddenly gone crazy.

BATTLE FOR LIFE

As I ran I was trying to think what had happened back at the house, but I was also at the same time trying to think of some way to get away from him.

He finally caught me and struck me on the mouth and knocked me down. I didn't let go of the baby.

He grabbed me by the hair and pulled me along the road toward the house. I screamed, but there was nobody around to hear me.

He got me to the threshold of the house and finally in a last desperate effort I made a kick at him and he fell backwards. I jumped up and ran into the woods and escaped.

I didn't know where I was going. I just made for the woods and when I got out of sight, in the trees, I just kept going.

SPREADS ALARM

After a while I came back out on the road and ran to the Churches' house.

I told them what had happened, so far as I knew, and I said there must be something terribly wrong and I was afraid for Paul and Arthur.

George Church went up to our house then, and you know what he found.

Oh, it's awful, awful!

And it would have happened to me and the baby, too, if I hadn't got away.

I can't understand why Grandpa did it.

He and Paul had been having a great time together all afternoon. Gramp had had his arm around Paul's shoulders.

I guess Gramp must have just gone crazy.

Flays Bay State Parole System

Arthur Cullen, Sr., of Broadway, Lowell, father of the younger of the two Canaan, N. H., axe-slaying victims, bitterly assailed Massachusetts authorities today for releasing the alleged killer, John Henry Gray, from Bridgewater State Farm.

"They knew he wasn't right," Cullen said. "They knew he wasn't fit to be loose. Whoever let him out of Bridgewater is to blame for what has happened."

Cullen's criticism of the Massachusetts parole system, as applied to Bridgewater, was preceded by a similar public criticism last year.

At that time, public indignation was aroused by two New Hampshire slayings allegedly committed by Howard Long, paroled Bridgewater state farm inmate.

Long is now awaiting execution in New Hampshire for the murder of 10-year-old Mark Jensen of Laconia.

Police said Long admitted also having murdered 12-year-old Armand Nadeau in Dover, N. H.

reported the federal agents were concentrating on the "back bay" region two miles south of that city, a vast swamp area which contains some 500 small, uninhabited islands suitable for a criminal hideout.

It could not be learned whether J. Edgar Hoover, F. B. I. chief, was among the men rushed to Ft. Lauderdale.

There is enough water in the "back bay" swamps to permit travel by launches and power boats, and it appeared certain boats would be used in any attempt to search the islands.

The few federal men left here, as well as police, could not or would not explain the activity at Fort Lauderdale.

It seemed certain, however, that the early morning activity resulted from an entirely new development in the investigation, for before he retired Hoover conferred with his men, then told reporters:

"I don't think there will be any further developments before daylight. I am going t orest."

A bundle of clothes, believed to have belonged to kidnapers themselves, had been found entirly a short distance from the scene where the $10,000 ransom was paid in vain for the boy's return.

READY TO PROSECUTE

G-men refused to make any comment on the discovery. The clothes were believed to have been left by someone expecting to make a quick change.

Hoover late last night conferred with C. C. Gibbs, Florida Attorney-General. Gibbs, it was understood, came to assist in the prosecution in the event of an arrest.

Hopes for an early "break" dimmed as numerous other clues and rumors run down by G-men failed to offer any definite solution as to the whereabouts of the abductors of the boy.

All but a few of the posses which were called to make up one of Florida's biggest manhunts were released from further search in the Redland area where for the past few days they have covered virtually every inch of the hazardous terrain in an effort to find clues as to the fate of the child.

For the second time in 24 hours, Hoover visited the kidnap scene in Princeton and conferred with the distraught parents.

Nahant Wedding of President's Son to Cost $10,000

As valuable wedding gifts began pouring in for Anne Lindsay Clark, bride-to-be on June 18 of the youngest son of President Roosevelt, her mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, made plans today to insure police protection for the costly presents.

A U. S. Secret Service agent has already been placed in the Clark home at Nahant, with further guards expected when the gifts are displayed for the 900 guests at the wedding.

Expenses for the day, according to Mrs. Clark, will total $10,000—easily the most expensive wedding reception given on the North Shore this season. And that does not include the bride-to-be's trousseau and gifts to her bridesmaids.

For the guests, foremost of whom will be the President and the First Lady, two orchestras will provide fitting music, one to play in the Nahant Tennis Club, scene of the reception, and the other to play on the grounds.

PINK, WHITE FLOWERS

The club will be bedecked with pink and white flowers in perfect keeping with the ruffles of tulle of the bridal gown and the blue and pink gowns of the bridesmaids.

Champagne, ices and other refreshments will be served for the memorable occasion.

All the invitations, made by a Boston engraver, have been sent out. Eight hundred of them are for the reception and 400 for the Boston church. A squad of men have been obtained to check lists of the guests at both the club and the church so that "gatecrashers" will be stopped at the doors.

During the week, under the personal supervision of Mrs. Clark, the landscaping of her new Nahant home has transformed the atmosphere from one of barrenness to one of gayety.

LAND ADORNED

The land around the house is now adorned with flowering plants and shrubberies.

Wedding trip for the newlyweds is the gift of Mrs. James Roosevelt, John's grandmother, who presented a similar gift to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., when he married Miss Ethel duPont last year.

House Yields Levine Clues

NEW ROCHELLE N. Y., June 4 (INS)—A deserted waterfront house in which kidnaped Peter Levine may have met death three months ago became the focal point of intensified G-man activity today.

First fruit of the renewed search was a length of wire similar to that of foreign make, used to bind Peter's submerged body.

Frank Bruno, owner of the closed cottage, came foward with a story which failed to come to police attention March 15 last when routine search of the property brought to light a toy typewriter of the make used by the Levine kidnapers to write three ransom-demand

"I've just been told that you federal men found that typewriter in the cellar of my house," Bruno volunteered. "That doesn't check with my recollection that I threw a similar typewriter onto a backyard rubbish heap when we moved out in February."

N.H. Tragedy Figures All Bay Staters

All of the principals in New Hampshire's dual axe murder were once residents of Massachusetts. They were:

THE VICTIMS:

Paul Barris, 35, son of Walter J. Barris, prosperous Charlestown lumber dealer. He formerly lived in Tanager street, Arlington.

Arthur Cullen, 9 years old, of Broadway, Lowell, a half brother of Barris' wife.

ACCUSED KILLER.

John Henry Gray, 54, a parolee from the state farm at Bridgewater, sought for six months for violation of his parole. He also once lived on Broadway, Lowell.

Mrs. Mildred Barris, widow of Paul, is the former Mildred Rivers. She formerly lived in Howard street, Lowell, and in East Lenox street, South End, Boston.

Regis Girls Win Honors

According to tradition, Miss Margaret Thornton of West Concord, winner of the hoop-rolling contest in Regis College's annual athletic day, should be the first of her class to marry.

In an exhibit of riding by the college riding club, the Misses Katherine and Mary O'Sullivan of Lincoln topped the field with a thrilling display of hurdle jumping.

In the beginners' class, Miss Mary Gahan of Newton Highlands was adjudged the best horsewoman. Miss Mary Graham of Jamaica Plain won the blue ribbon in the intermediate division, while Miss Josephine Cary of Hopkinton was foremost among the more advanced riders.

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes from the woman's Viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

'Periscope' Auto to Bring Summer Joy to 'Lung' Boy

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP)—Fred Snite, Jr., the self-styled "boiler kid," is going places this summer in a specially built automobile equipped with a periscope.

It will enable him to be taken on pleasure drives and to ball games and other outdoor events, which have been denied the 27-year-old infantile paralysis victim since he was stricken in Peiping, China, two years ago.

Young Snite was in high spirits when he arrived yesterday from his Miami, Fla., winter home. Encased in a large mechanical respirator, he was transferred from a special hospital train car to a specially equipped moving van and thence to Billings Memorial Hospital.

He will be taken to his home in suburban River Forest after physicians make a 10-day study of his condition.

Health Session In Final Day

Sex education was one of the topics discussed today at the final day meeting of the New England Health Education Association, meeting at M. I. T. in Cambridge.

The principal speaker was Homer Calver of New York.

The new officers of the association took office at the morning session which was opened by Dr. Samuel C. Prescott, dean of science at M. I. T.

New officers are Mabel Brown, Reading, president; Katherine Hitchcock, Simmons College, secretary; Albertine McKellar, New Hampshire State Board of Education, vice-president; and Barbara Y. Wilson, Boston public schools, treasurer.

Bay Staters 'Invade' Camp

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., June 4 (AP)—Pennsylvania was "invaded" today by 2000 friendly troopers of the 39th Cavalry Brigade, from Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

The National Guardsmen, due at this 18,000 acre camp site in the Blue Mountains by noon, were among the first of thousands of members of the nation's armed forces to use the training area, 20 miles east of Harrisburg, the state capital, this summer.

The cavalry units arriving today probably will be reviewed June 15 by Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey and Charles F. Hurley of Massachusetts.

Tobin To Decide On 5-Day Week

City employes today looked forward to a five-day week during summer months following a statement by Mayor Tobin to the City Council that he was contemplating such action.

He declared he would confer next week with city department heads to determine which branches can be closed completely Saturdays and which can operate with skeleton crews. Under the law certain departments must remain open on Saturday mornings.

British Tour Historic Bay State Spots

Thrilled by Boston's whole-hearted acclaim, 83 members of the Honourable Artillery Company of London looked forward today to more historic sight-seeing of spots steeped in British tradition and to an official state dinner to be tendered them this evening at the Copley Plaza Hotel by Governor Hurley.

Guests of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Massachusetts, on its 300th anniversary, the British troopers planned to visit various points in down-town Boston, historic Plymouth and Cohasset for the second day of their festive four-day stay.

At Plymouth the visitors will thrill to the sight of the famous rock which marke the landing of their ancestors, the Pilgrims, in America. They will lunch in regal splendor at the King's Path Inn.

CURRY IS HOST

Lieutenant James J. Curry, prominent "Ancient" will be their host at his Cohasset home, after which they return to Boston for the climax of the day, the state dinner.

The Londoners received their official welcome yesterday in a parade from the North Station to Faneuil Hall and a resplendent military ball at the First Corps Cadets Armory on Columbus avenue.

They visited Governor Hurley at the State House and Mayor Tobin at City Hall. History was renewed as they gazed with reverence on the Hall of Flags. Colonel Charles T. Cahill of the "Ancients" decorated the mayor with a medal commemorating the 300th anniversary of the organization.

COLORFUL FETE

Brilliant military displays and beautifully-gowned women made the occasion of the armory ball a memorable one. Lieutenant Wallace D. Riddell, Boston insurance executive and adjutant of the "Ancients" acted as floor marshal, with Captain Edward P. Brock and Colonel Arthur N. Payne as his assistants.

Tomorrow noon the Londoners will be served luncheon at the Brookline Country Club. In the afternoon they will visit the Harvard College grounds and museums and be entertained at tea at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Charles T. Cahill, wife of the commanding officer, heads a committee of the wives of the "Ancients" in entertaining the British ladies who accompanied the visitors.

Polly Blodgett, Others Sail On Franconia

Many prominent New Englanders sail out of the port of Boston today for West Indies and European vacation spots.

Brookline's first lady of the skating rinks, Polly Blodgett, sails with her mother Mrs. Dorothy C. Blodgett for England tonight on the Cunard White Star liner Franconia.

Also passengers on the Franconia are Dr. Joseph Doherty, brother of National American Legion commander Daniel Doherty of Woburn, and his mother.

Others embarking are Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, president of Clark University, accompanied by his wife; Misses Louisa L. and Ellen G. Vaughn of Beverly Farms, daughters of Atty. Samuel Vaughn; Professor F. W. C. Hersey of the English department at Harvard, and Mrs. William Byrd, cousin of Admiral Byrd.

Returning to his native Scotland is one of the heavyweight wrestling favorites, George Clarke. Other Bostonians sailing include Miss Helen R. Shepard, Miss Mary Newbury, faculty members of Bryn Mawr; Dr. and Mrs. George E. Marsden, Mrs. E. G. Bohn, Miss Louise S. Zutter, Mrs. Nicholas J. Sloan, wife of a Cunard official, sailing with her two children N. A. Sloan and Sheila M.

Sailing early today from Commonwealth pier on a 30-day cruise to the Leeward and Windward Islands, Bermuda and the British West Indies was the Canadian National liner Lady Drake.

Arriving tonight are the Cunarder Laconia, from Liverpool, Belfast and Glasgow, and the Anchor liner California, from Glasgow and Dublin. Sunday's lone arrival is the United States liner American Importer from Manchester, Liverpool and Belfast with 25 passengers.

Lady Big Yank Taboos Runts

CHICAGO, June 4 (INS)—Members of the Society of Big Yanks, limited to men in excess of 6 feet 2 inches tall, were startled when a young lady forced her way into their meeting.

She was Miss Bea Reynolds, 5 feet 10 inches, and she announced firmly:

"I want to form a ladies' auxiliary. I am tired of dancing with runts and sliding down on my fourth vertebra when my boy friend tries to put his arm around me. I have to do it to spare his feelings, even though he wears built-up heels—the heel!"

Whereupon a number of resolutions were adopted, the beanstalk was adopted as the official flower and the giraffe as mascot. The founder of the organization, Holly Swanson, is a mere 6 feet 10 inches tall.

When Maid Resigns Grim Tragedy Stalks In

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Vexed by her maid's announcement she was quitting, Mrs. Lillian Jacobs wept.

Then, because her eyes were red, Mrs. Jacobs was ashamed to take her seven-month-old daughter, Karen, out for her usual day's airing.

Instead she took the child to the roof of her Riverside Drive apartment.

The baby, attracted by a glistening radio aerial dangling above her at the roof's edge, grabbed it and tugged strongly. The sudden movement jerked her from her mother's arms, and the baby tumbled 16 floors to death.

Order Remington Strikers Rehired

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, denying at this time a motion of the National Labor Relations Board to hold the Remington Rand Company in contempt, ordered the company to rehire by July 15 the employes who went on strike two years ago.

Baby Hailed As "Prettiest"

Six-months-old Eleanor Cooper of Teele avenue had the distinction today of being classed as Somerville's "prettiest baby."

In a baby show conducted by the Yawata Council No. 25 in the Knights of Pythias hall, Broadway, Somerville, little Eleanor was adjudged the prettiest of more than 100 eager contestants.

Second prize winner was Lawrence Wilson, six months, of Meehan street. Rita Bowdren, all of 16 months old, of Century street, was awarded the third prize.

Florence Celiena headed the committee.

Jimmy Ponders Political Move

James Roosevelt today pondered whether or not to plunge into Massachusetts politics, promising to give his decision sometime Monday.

The President's son declared he would at that time decide whether or not to fall in with the attempt by the citizens' committee to draft him for lieutenant-governor.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ROOSEVELT

With his wife, young Roosevelt was opening his Framingham estate for the summer, although he plans to return to Washington prior to his brother's marriage, June 18, at Nahant to Anne Clark.

He made it clear that he would support no candidate against Governor Hurley in the primaries in his statement:

"I shall support the candidate who wins the Democratic nomination."

Deeply tanned and flashing the famous Roosevelt smile, he showed no effects of his recent stomach disorder which called for a trip to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. He confided he is soon to return there for a three-week period of treatment.

Continually he replied "No politics" in answer to the queries of his interviewers. He declined to answer questions concerning the administration pump-priming program and also those concerning the LaFollette third party.

LaFollette Due To Talk in Vt.

Rutland, Vt., June 4—Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, leader of the newly-formed Progressive party, was due here today for an address before the Vermont Young Republicans.

In a tour of New England, the youthful governor was overnight guest of President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth in Hanover, N. H., where he told an enthusiastic audience of students and faculty that neither Republican nor Democratic parties could solve the future problems of America.

"America can make a far greater contribution to the state of this world by putting her own house in order and setting an example for other nations," he said. "The trouble with both Republican and Democratic parties is that they are organized on a basis of 75 years ago."

More Arrests Due in Revere

Indictments against three or more high Revere officials are expected next week it was indicated today as prosecutors for Attorney General Paul A. Dever prepared for at least one more week of grand jury proceedings.

While the attorney general's staff adjourned for the weekend, high hopes were held over the change in attitude of several witnesses who were brought before the grand jury for the second time.

It was learned that at least three witnesses, said to be well versed in the background of Revere rackets had volunteered information concerning the ownership of two large Revere horse rooms.

Accountants Plan Tourney Monday

Members of the Massachusetts Society of Public Accountants, Inc., were polishing golf clubs and laying out tennis togs today in readiness for the organization's annual social and recreational meeting.

This will be held Monday at the Belmont Country Club. The society's annual dinner, at 7 p. m., will be followed by dancing.

BAN SHOP-TALK

The Apartment House Owners Association of Boston will hold its final meeting of the year at Pine Brook Valley Country Club, Weston, June 15, with women guests and shop-talk banned.

Holyoke Plant Closes, 1300 Idle

HOLYOKE, June 4 (AP)—Thirteen hundred employes of the Farr Alpaca Company will be idle for three weeks during a shut-down attributed by the company to "slack business."

The closing was announced at the same time the company accepted "with regret" the resignation of William Van Dejewelt, vice president in charge of manufacturing and merchandising.

Roosevelt Gets Right to Spend 3 Billion Plus

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The Senate voted six to one for a $3,723,000,000 spending-lending program last midnight—and handed the Roosevelt administration the purse-strings.

The 79 senators who remained for the finish of the two weeks' battle over the bill divided 60 to 10 for the measure. Seven Republicans and three Democrats lined up against it.

Before the final vote, opponents of the program were completely routed. They lost every attempt to write restrictions into the bill. As passed it would give President Roosevelt an entirely free hand in the disposition of the huge appropriation.

Twice the Senate turned down proposals to forbid political activities by employes in emergency agencies. Opponents of the amendments contended this would deny such employes freedom of speech and opinion.

CLOSEST CONTEST

These amendments brought the closest contest. One was rejected by one vote and the other by two.

By substantial margins, administration leaders defeated proposals to earmark more than $500,000,000 of PWA funds for specific purposes. President Roosevelt, asking "flexibility" in the relief program, had indicated opposition to earmarking.

The Chamber also turned a cold shoulder to a Republican proposal to hand over relief administration to the states and an effort by Senator Byrd (D.) of Virginia, to wipe out the $965,000,000 appropriation for the PWA.

The spending-lending program now goes to a joint Senate-House conference committee for the adjustment of differences between measures passed by the two Chambers.

MORE FARM AID

The Senate bill totalled almost $600,000,000 more than the House measure. The Senate increased by $175,000,000 the House allotment for the WPA, but provided that the sum should run the agency until next March 1. The House had voted $1,250,000,000 for work-relief to last until February 1.

Other Senate increases included $212,000,000 for farm benefit payments, $300,000,000 for additional slum clearance loans and $1,000,000 for administrative costs of the rural electrification administration.

Winant Elected Labor Director

GENEVA, June 4 (INS)—Former Governor John Winant of New Hampshire today was elected director general of the International Labor Organization. He will take his post at the end of the year, succeeding Harold Butler of England.

F. D. Son's Wire Stirs Iowa Ire

DES MOINES, It., June 4 (AP)—"My friends," pet phrase of the Roosevelts, today had become a factor in its singular form in the Iowa Democratic senatorial primary.

James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the President, late yesterday placed another piece on the Iowa political chess board in a telegram containing the words, "My friend Otha Wearin."

Wearin, a congressman claiming White House support in his aspirations, is opposing Senator Guy M. Gillette for the Iowa Democratic senatorial nomination. Gillette was paired against the President's Supreme Court reform bill. Democratic voters will select the party nominee from among Wearin, Gillette and three other candidates Monday.

PLOT AGAINST "FRIEND"

James Roosevelt's telegram, the first publicly active recognition of the Iowa primary from the first family of the land, informed Federal District Attorney Ed Dunn of Mason City that he had not made and then cancelled plans to campaign in Iowa for Wearin. Young Roosevelt termed the reports "deliberate misrepresentation intended to injure my friend Wearin."

Wearin forces were jubilant over the telegram as evidence of the blessing of the White House. Gillette, however, saw in the telegram "assurances" that the President is strictly neutral.

The Wearin camp several weeks ago introduced a pictorial note into the campaign by distributing copies of pictures taken of the candidate and the younger Roosevelt at a Harpers Ferry, Va., rally.

PARTY WIDELY SPLIT

Meanwhile the cleavage over the senatorial conflict, with its conflicting claims of New Deal support, penetrated more deeply into Iowa Democratic ranks.

Governor Nelson G. Kraschel, who criticized WPA Chief Harry L. Hopkins for "meddling" in the primary, dropped his neutrality and came out for Gillette. His stand left him at odds with State Treasurer Leo J. Wegman, his state ticket colleague, who is for Wearin.

Both Kraschel and Wegman will be on the state ticket together next fall since neither has opposition.

The Governor in a radio speech said several months ago he found that "Senator Gillette's return to the Senate would be agreeable to the national Democratic organization and administration."

HOW THEY LINE UP

Omitting inferential endorsements claimed by both sides, the lineup of support for Wearin and Kraschel to date is as follows:

FOR WEARIN—Hopkins, UAW President Homer Martin, Dunn, Wegman, Lamar Foster, speaker of the Iowa house, Congressman E. C. Eicher, I. T. Jones, former assistant WPA administrator for Iowa.

FOR GILLETTE—Senator Clyde L. Herring, Kraschel, Iowa AFL president A. A. Couch, Congressman Vincent F. Harrington, Tom White of the Iowa farmers union.

Gillette has added Thomas Corcoran, New Deal strategist, Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas and Governor Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin.

Talent, Labor Same to WPA

The New Deal shuffled the pay ratings of WPA today and dealt sweeping wage cuts to its white collar workers.

Musicians, artists, writers, actors and the highest paid professional and skilled workers were chopped to the pay level of unskilled laborers in widespread reductions, effective July 1.

On that day, the maximum yearly WPA salary will be $880. The reductions, which range up to $450 yearly were ordered at Washington by Administrator Harry Hopkins.

Through it all, no WPA worker in Massachusetts will lose a job. There are now 107,000 on the federal rolls.

Most seriously hurt in the slashes are those on the federal musicians project, who now receive $1400. Others include artists at $1400 and actors and writers at $1250.

More than 500 WPA white collar projects will be affected throughout the state, mostly in Greater Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Holyoke, Chicopee, Fitchburg, Lowell, Lawrence, Fall River, New Bedford and Haverhill.

Announcement of the changes came while the Workers' Alliance, organization of workers, had protested against a rumored closing of 24 professional projects in this state.

Officials at Washington denied that a single project of white collar workers was to be halted after receiving the protest from the Alliance.

Officials were not prepared today to state how many workers would be involved in the pay cuts although they stated that white color workers and the professional and skilled labor groups were but a small part of the WPA ranks.

Star Spurns 'Idols,' Picks 'Nicest Man'

MARION MARTIN
'He's Different'

HOLLYWOOD, June 4 (INS)—Marion Martin, platinum-tressed screen beauty who vowed no matinee idol ever gave her a single heart twitter in seven years on the stage, admitted today she's become engaged to a plain business executive after a two weeks' courtship.

The man, she said, "who's so different from people in the show business," is William Schlaff, wealthy Detroit insurance broker.

Miss Martin, native of Philadelphia, was the last girl glorified by the late Flo Ziegfeld, who called her "the most beautiful girl I have ever seen."

"Bill wanted to get married right away and take me back to Detroit when he left Wednesday on a business trip, but I thought we had better wait a little bit on something as important as this," Miss Martin said.

"I never met a man like him before. Bill is so different from the people in the show business. He is so level headed. He's the nicest man I've ever met."

Dorchester Day Marked

Dorchester was bedecked with banners and 100,000 spectators indulged in the festivities in today's annual observance of "Dorchester Day."

Free movies and ice cream for the children and a gala parade for young and old alike were the day's chief attractions.

The parade, in which Governor Hurley, Mayor Tobin and other state and city officials were to march, was scheduled to begin at two o'clock from Codman square and proceed to Fields Corner.

After the parade, a doll carriage show and races were planned by the Thomas J. Roberts Post of the American Legion at their headquarters, Park and Claybourne streets.

From the current list of eligibles, which expires soon, three promotions will be made.

Hospital Habit

Baby's Full Life

LOS ANGELES, June 4 (AP)—Richard Battaglia, 20 months old, is the police emergency hospital's best customer.

He was in again today. He cut his hand when he broke a glass. Previously the hospital had given Richard first aid when he:

Swallowed a marble, ate ant paste, ate his mother's cold cream, fell off a fence on his head.

When physicians finished with Richard, two-year-old Kathryn Lenow was brought in. She had swallowed a marble.

Richard wasn't impressed.

Reward Spurs Somerville Murder Hunt

Hunt for the murderers of William Phillips, Somerville storekeeper, was spurred today with a $500 reward, voted by the Somerville aldermen.

The reward, offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the trio who brutally shot Phillips to death during a holdup, was approved at a special meeting of the board.

Meanwhile, seven suspects picked up for questioning in the case all were free today after convincing police they had no connection with the slaying.

Mayor John W. Lynch delivered a special message and urged the aldermen to approve the $500 reward. He said:

"Several years have passed since people of our city have been stunned and terror-stricken with the news that the life of a man, beloved in his community, industrious and home-loving, has been taken by one or more irresponsible and lawless persons who have no regard for human rights and human life.

"I appreciate the fact that the various police organizations are doing their utmost to solve this atrocious crime, and feel that we, the legislative and executive branches of our city government, must do our part.

"I, therefore, respectfully recommend that the sum of $500 be immediately appropriated as a reward for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the murderer or murderers of William Phillips on May 31."

Must Lily Pons Wed Again?

NORWALK, Ct., June 4 (INS)—Mr. and Mrs. Andre Kostelanetz may have to be married all over again.

The Norwalk license marriage of Lily Pons, petite French opera, radio and screen star, to the noted orchestra conductor in a tea house on her rambling Silvermine estate, was the center of a dispute today.

It is now a question as to whether the tea house is in Norwalk or New Canaan.

Assistant Tax Commissioner Christian Bauer said a personal survey showed the tea house to be "200 feet over" the Norwalk-New Canaan line.

Under Connecticut law, a marriage ceremony must be performed in the town in which the marriage license is issued.

Judge Louis Goldschmidt, who waived Connecticut's five-day law for the couple, said it really didn't make any difference.

"If they are satisfied, that's all there is to it. They are the only ones that can do anything about it."

Man Suicide In Roxbury Home

William P. White, 33, of Center street, Roxbury, shot himself through the head today in the bathroom of his home, police reported.

His sister Dorothy told police she heard a shot after he went into the bathroom. Forcing her way into the locked room she found him on the floor with blood streaming from his head.

It May Be So, But---

A AUGUSTA, Me., June 4 (AP)—A new kind of a "fish story" about a Maine clam going berserk and osculating a hornpout to death had Capital City fishermen chuckling today.

Lloyd Sawyer of Augusta, who said he had photographic proof of the incident, reported separation of the clam and the fish was possible only by using a screwdriver.

EVIDENCE

He said he pulled the linked hornpout and clam from nearby Lake Cobbosseecontee after he had watched a "terrific battle" in about six inches of water.

Big Bond Issue Sought by Hurley For Relief

Governor Hurley today prepared drafts of a special message seeking authority to float a state bond issue of approximately $15,000,000 for the relief of unemployment.

The bond issue would finance a program of highway construction and reconstruction and provide for the distribution of state grants to various cities and towns for that purpose.

If the final draft is satisfactory, the proposal will be submitted to the Legislature for consideration next week. It's enactment would require a two-thirds vote.

Baby Found Slain, Father Hunted

NEW YORK, June 4 (INS)—Police sent out a tri-state alarm today for Raymond Swincoe, 35-year-old WPA worker, whose baby daughter, Delores, 4 was murdered in her State Island home.

The child had been beaten and possibly drowned in a sink. Mrs. Nina Swincoe, 29, the mother, found the baby its body a mass of welts and bruises—when she returned home from a visit to friends.

Ann Millspaugh In Debut Whirl

By BETTY ALDEN

ANN Millspaugh will temporarily forget the long tedious hours of study and the forbidding prospect of impending college board exams, when she indulges in a minature whirl of debutante activities this week-end . . . Tomorrow afternoon she will make her own debut, after attending a number of parties for her sister debs today, and the May School senior dance last evening . . .

She will be presented at a Sunday afternoon tea given by her mother, Mrs. Plant Millspaugh, at their Beach Bluff home . . . wearing the crisp white dress in which she graduated "with high commendation" from Miss May's yesterday morning . . . Her flowers will combine pastel spring blossoms to harmonize with her mother's hyacinth blue gown as they stand together in the receiving line to greet their many friends . . .

Ann will have a large dance given for her at the Tedesco Country Club in September, just before she leaves for Smith College . . . At tomorrow's party the pourers will be headed by the debutante's aunt, Miss Alada Plant, of Portland, who is spending the week-end at the Millspaughs' . . . Assisting her will be Mrs. Charles Sprague, Mrs. Nelson Darling, Mrs. Roger Morse, Mrs. Stephen Paine, Mrs. Laurence Hansel, Mrs. Talbot C. Chase, Mrs. Pierce Pearmain, Mrs. Robert Kimball, Mrs. Lawrence Bankhart, and a number of other friends . . .

Ben Welles to Enter Fourth Estate

Ben Welles's experiences as publicity director of the past two or three Hasty Pudding shows gave him enough insight into newspaper work to help him decide to become a member of the fourth estate himself . . . After he receives his sheepskin from Harvard on the 23rd, and enjoys a short vacation with his parents, Under-Secretary of State and Mrs. Sumner Welles in Washington, Ben will go to Madison, Wisconsin, to begin his career . . . After winning his spurs in the news gathering business, his next stop will be London, and in a few years he expects to be a full fledged foreign correspondent . . .

His father's long career and wide acquaintance in diplomatic circles all over the world will be a marvelous help to Ben . . .

Rev. Keenan Club's Guest Speaker

Rev. Joseph Keenan, professor of Scripture at Emmanuel College, will be guest speaker at the second annual communion breakfast of Catholic Professional Women's Club tomorrow morning at the Copley-Plaza.

Mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. Dr. Mary Moore Beatty, one of the directors, is chairman of the party.

The musical program is being planned by Mrs. Florence Fassnacht Emery.

ST. ELIZABETH'S DANCE

A dinner dance for the graduating class of St. Elizabeth's Hospital will be held Thursday evening in the Myles Standish Hotel.

Janet Carter Picks June 18 As Wedding Day

Miss Janet Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Carter of Nashua, N. H., has selected Saturday, June 18, as the date for her marriage to John C. Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Andrews of Cazenova, N. Y.

The four o'clock ceremony will be performed in the Church of the Good Shepherd, followed by a reception at the Nashua Country Club. Mrs. Hervey Allen of Oxford, Maryland, wife of the well-known author, and sister of the prospective groom, will be matron of honor, and the Misses Patricia Bell of Cazenova, Helen Montague of Needham, Mass., Constance Thurber of Nashua and Laura Maggio of Brooklyn, N. Y., the bridesmaids. The small daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Allen, Marcia and Mary Ann, will be junior bridesmaids.

Charles Andrews will be his brother's best man, and the ushers are all out-of-town friends of the bridegroom.

Miss Carter graduated from Beaver Country Day School and studied art at Syracuse University. Her fiance was educated at the Kent School and Harvard, and completed his studies in Germany.

Teachers, '22, Plan Reunion

Graduates of Boston Teacher's College, class of '22, will gather for a reunion at the Myles Standish, Wednesday evening.

Florence Fisher, chairman of the committee, will serve as toastmistress. Those assisting her include Elizabeth Bevlin, Charlotte Adams, Victorine Monast and Mary Matthes. Reception is in charge of Helen Kirby, president of the alumnae association.

Other reunions scheduled for the Myles Standish are the dinners of Simmons College's classes of '22 and '23, next Saturday evening.

At the same time, the class of '34 will meet in another section of the hotel under the direction of Mary Connor.

Regis Set For Dinner Of Alumnae

Regis College alumnae dinner tonight at the college in Weston is the most outstanding event of the round of entertainment which the group has planned as its contribution to Commencement week.

At six this evening graduates of every class will descend on the college for a pleasant reunion with classmates. Constance Gai of Auburndale is general chairman of the festivity.

Assisting her is Florence Gallagher of Weston, chairman of the alumnae's Commencement week, Mary Burns of Arlington, Eileen Mulcahy of Lowell, Ruth James of Brookline, Margaret Donovan of Newton, Rose Caputo of Brighton, Mildred Sheehan of Dorchester, Julie Saunders of Lowell, Esther Donohoe of Lowell, Margaret Givran of Brockton and Ruth Neelon of Chelsea.

Tonight's event also marks the introduction of the seniors to the alumnae body under the direction of Ruth Burke of Dorchester, Anne Waters of Newton, Grace Gai of Auburndale, Marguerite Houlihan of Somerville and Katherine Higgins of Watertown.

Music for the occasion is being planned by Margaret Cummings of Reading, Rita Harrington of Brighton and Florence Gallagher.

Members of the faculty and Mrs. Joseph V. Carroll of Belmont, guild president, will be guest of honor.

Dwyer Musicale At Lenox Tonight

Annual spring musicale of the George L. Dwyer Choral Ensemble will be held this evening in the dome room of the Hotel Lenox.

An excellent program has been prepared under the direction of William Frank and Francis Weisner, president. Among the evening soloists will be Mrs. H. H. Denning, Allegra Weisner and Henry Michaud. Another feature of the evening will be a sextette of women's voices.

BULLOCKS IN NEW YORK

Mrs. Rockwood Bullock of Worcester and her daughter, Mary Bullock, are spending a few days at the Weylin Hotel in New York. Miss Bullock is engaged to Alden Porter Johnson of Worcester.

J. B. Miles, Bride to Take Up Home in Brookline

Mr. James Browning Miles of Brookline, who will be married a week from today to Miss Mary Routh Sims of Chestnut Hill, Pa., will bring his bride to Brookline to live, where they will be at home after July 1.

The wedding will take place at St. Thomas's Church in Whitemarsh, Pa., with a reception at the home of Mrs. Charles Platt, aunt of the bride-to-be. Jean Carpenter of Swampscott, who has just returned from a Mediterranean cruise, will be the only Boston girl among the bevy of six bridesmaids, but a number of Bostonian friends of the prospective bridegroom will go down to serve as ushers.

They include the Messrs. George Erhard of Hopedale, George Seabury of Weston, Andre Reggio and Francis A. Brewer, Jr., of Brookline. Charles Rogers Miles will be his brother's best man.

Pre-wedding entertainment will include a dinner on the eve of the wedding given by Mr. and Mrs. W. Findley Downs, a cocktail party preceding the wedding rehearsal and an informal supper party Thursday evening, at which Miss Ledlie Newtin will be hostess.

Martha Lee Eggs On Contest Fans

By MARTHA LEE

How would you like to have your family supplied with strictly fresh eggs at no cost? Well, here's your opportunity for just that.

A prize of 12 dozen strictly fresh eggs will be awarded to the New Englander who submits the best title for a new film about eggs. The winner is privileged to receive his eggs in lots of one or two dozen at a time.

The film is sponsored by the Massachusetts State College at Amherst, Massachusetts, and will be available in the fall for women's clubs, church groups and granges.

Here are the subjects covered in the film:

Part I—How Eggs Are Produced:
Incubations;
Brooding scenes;
Scenes on growing range;
Scenes in laying house—feeding—nests.

Part II—Marketing of Eggs:
Egg grading;
Egg sales at the Brockton Auction;
Customers buying eggs;
How to know good eggs;
Care of eggs at home.

Part III—Food Value of Eggs:
Body building;
Eggs for special occasions;
Campers cooking eggs.

Part IV—Egg Cookery:
Scenes in kitchen showing attractive dishes made with eggs.

Everyone is eligible to compete. Send your title to Egg Contest Editor, First National Stores, Somerville, Massachusetts. All entries must be postmarked not later than Saturday, June 18th.

* * *

Surely some of you will have some good title suggestions for this new film. And just think of all the good dishes that can be cooked with that prize of twelve dozen strictly fresh eggs.

Since we're talking about eggs today, how about a few recipes of our own?

SCRAMBLED EGGS AND CRABMEAT

2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon curry powder
½ cup crabmeat
¼ teaspoon paprika
6 eggs
¼ cup cream

Melt butter over low heat, then stir in until well heated the curry powder, crabmeat and paprika. Beat eggs with cream until light, then add to crab mixture. Stir these ingredients gently until the eggs are scrambled.

EGG AND BACON SOUFFLE

¼ cup finely diced bacon
2 slices bread
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon paprika

Fry diced bacon until light brown. Brush bread slices with bacon drippings; cut slice in small pieces to fit casserole; arrange in layers, sprinkling each with bacon, combine slightly beaten eggs, milk, salt, mustard, paprika and pour over bread. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until puffy and mixture doesn't adhere to inserted knife, about 45 minutes. Serves 4.

EGG AND ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE

Place 6 eggs in hot water to cover and allow to simmer for 20 minutes. Place in cold water and remove shells. Cut in quarters lengthwise. Place a layer of bread crumbs in a baking dish, arrange layers of cooked asparagus and quartered eggs over the crumbs and cover with 2 cups of medium white sauce. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes. This mixture may be baked in individual casseroles.

Profit by Stature

THE small-sized woman has no reason to complain about stature. She can wear lovely clothes from the junior department and the cutest hats. Her tiny hands and feet appeal to the men.

When she gets along in years she must still wear youthful clothes. Unless she gains weight she will always appear younger than her years.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

12-Day Diet Clears Skin To Flawless Young Beauty

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU WERE a pampered heir or heiress in the Town and Country set and your complexion started to act up, looking suspiciously like an acne outbreak, it's likely you'd be hauled off to a European spa and put on a complexion diet at the cost of considerable chunks of money.

WITH a skin that radiates an unmarred beauty and a body that responds like a snapped whip . . . you'll bring to your vacation days the zest like Susan Hayward's. Arline Gould today discloses a complexion-clearing diet that shows the way to a re-birth of loveliness.

The funny part of it all is that the marvelous skin-clearing diet used in a well known watering place can be duplicated to the last vegetable and right in your own kitchen!

What's more, there's nothing at all exotic about the fruits or vegetables required—they come in by the bale and box to Faneuil Hall market every day.

If you haven't heard of the 12-day diet for skin eruptions before, don't waste a minute!

It's been known to bring back a flawless beauty to badly marred skins within that limit, and certainly you can in that time form food habits that will guard your health and beauty as long as you're in the runing for all the good things of life!

Although the idea of the diet is not to reduce, you'll find yourself buoyantly and radiantly re-made, with firmly beautiful curves to replace any lax ones and a feeling that until this time you'd never really lived joyously before.

Any bad and continual outbreak of acne or a persistent rash is signal of need for adjustment in the workings of the digestive system. Advice of famous skin specialists from abroad has been found to be completely adaptable, and we have a detailed leaflet which yields the same menus dearly bought in a spa noted for its remarkable work. You may have a copy of it simply by writing to Arline Gould, Boston American, and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Poems Whole World Loves

Do you know the rest of this famous poem by Shakespeare? Or is it forgotten—like others you've wanted to keep but somehow didn't?

A delight to find these favorites again—to refresh your spirit with inspiring poems like "Abou Ben Adhem" by Leigh Hunt:

"Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily still; and said:
'I pray thee, then,
Write me as one that loves his fellow-men.'"

Always stirring is Henry Van Dyke's "America for Me." Do you remember this verse?

"Oh, London is a man's town,
there's power in the air;
And Paris is a woman's town,
with flowers in her hair;
And it's sweet to dream in Venice,
and it's great to study Rome;
But when it comes to living,
there's no place like home."

Read these, many more favorites complete in our 40-page booklet, POEMS THE WHOLE WORLD LOVES. By Longfellow, Poe, Kipling, others.

Send 15c for our booklet, POEMS THE WHOLE WORLD LOVES, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Declaration of Independence By Farm Wife

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This is a plaint that's been heard from the farm country in past decades—and here it pops up again, with the details as modernized as the writer complains her house is not!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Thank God for mothers, say I, preparing to go to mine with my two children. Here's the situation: My husband is a dairyman, and every cent he makes goes into his dairy. If I were a cow, I would be treated better than I am as his wife.

We have no running water in our house. I'm obliged to carry up a hill for cooking, washing, family baths, etc., but there is running water and electricity in the cow barn, while we make out with kerosene lamps in the house.

In addition to doing all the household work, I help with the milking in the barn, run the milk separator, turn the unsold milk into cottage cheese. The only way I can make my husband miss me and put a few modern improvements in the house, which he can well afford, is to go back to my mother, temporarily, if he'll come to his senses, and treat the children and me as well as he does the cows and calves, permanently if he doesn't.

NEGLECTED WIFE

As this letter is a declaration of independence, there isn't anything to say but wish the writer well. With husbands of this type, and there are plenty of them, shock treatment is worth trying. When a man puts electricity and running water in his cow barn, and has neither of these things in his home, though his wife assures me he can afford both, going home to mother as a solvent is not to be overlooked.

Correct Posture Is Vital

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"SCOLIOSIS" IS a harsh word. It is the medical name for spinal curvature, an affliction which is all too common. I venture to say that if certain preventive measures were taken in early childhood this deformity would not be so prevalent.

There are various forms of scoliosis. Some are so slight that they are easily overlooked. There may be a twist either to the right or left, causing the body to be carried at an abnormal angle.

Where the trouble is only slight, it is difficult to be sure it really exists. The diagnosis is made by careful examination, giving particular attention to the posture. This is important because many forms of scoliosis, even mild forms, are frequently responsible for constipation, indigestion, headache, nervousness and other chronic complaints.

Just as scoliosis may result in faulty posture, it is true, too, that bad posture may produce the spinal curvature so frequently observed in young children. The habit of sitting and standing correctly should be taught the youngsters at an early age.

Too many appear to believe that the development of good posture is concerned only with the standing position. It is equally important to maintain good posture while sitting.

Faulty sitting posture has its part in eyestrain, round shoulders, loss of appetite, digestive disturbance and backwardness in mental growth, as well as the development of the young body. Fortunately, modern educators realize the importance of this matter. Today, school rooms are equipped with adjustable desks, so that cramped positions are avoided. The teachers know the value of posture in the erect as well as sitting positions. Any tendency toward scoliosis will be avoided by proper care.

"LOVE IN SWINGTIME"

by TOMMY DORSEY and GEORGE D. LOTTMAN

Biff Gets Revenge On Harriet's Escort

What Has Happened:

Not long after leaving Harvard to become a professional swing musician, Biff Brown proves an overnight sensation as a clarinetist with Tommy Dorsey's band. He has quarreled often with his sweetheart, Harriet Cardale, over music, she being an enemy of swing and a devotee of the classics. She, too, has come to New York to continue vocal studies.

Harriet and Biff's relations are again idyllic, except for occasional ruptures—always over swing. And that issue detonated Biff who publicly exploded at a high-brow reception after meeting Delmer Torrence and others of the so-called intelligentia set.

Harriet went home with Delmer but became reconciled with Biff later. Delmer escorted Harriet, one night, to the hotel that featured Dorsey's band and Biff . . .

Now Continue:

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Harriet and Delmer were sitting [illegible] and Biff could make out their expressions but see that [illegible] moving. Delmer's lips were curled superciliously as he toyed with a pinkish cocktail.

He was surveying the jive-driven rug cutters with an air of amused superiority. But Harriet was taking things more seriously.

Her hands were folded in the manner of her friend Biff as he [illegible] hoping he would suddenly burst into Mozart's clarinet concerto and so redeem himself in Delmer's sneering, scrutinizing eyes.

But the band [illegible] and Harriet [illegible] Delmer to take her back to the table. Biff, [illegible] deliberately trying for impossible [illegible] could [illegible] observation [illegible]

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

I HEAR THAT—Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York will be "the night before" speaker at Charlestown's Bunker Hill Day celebration . . . Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was invited, but declined . . . William Garner, nephew of John Nance Garner, who is in Boston as a member of the cast of "The Star Wagon"—he plays "Oglethorpe"—has an excellent voice and will appear in featured roles at the Jones Beach open-air auditorium in New York this summer . . . Art Moger, the cartoonist whose drawing appear in these pages, will be on the Fred Allen radio program . . . He will be interviewed by Fred as one of the "persons you didn't expect to meet . . ."

George Holland

Representative Francis X. Coyne has written Allen a letter, addressing it "John Florence Sullivan" . . . If this massive the Boston representative, who seems to carry his "true name" campaign to unusual extremes, reproves the Boston comedian for changing his name from Sullivan to Allen . . . The incongruous feature of the letter is that Representative Coyne says the name Allen is effeminate, and draws a very long bow to make his point . . .

> "I am surprised that a Sullivan would adopt an effeminate name like Allen," wrote the Beacon Hill point-maker. "To prove my point that Allen is an effeminate name, I ask you to spell it backwards, and you will find that it spells the word 'Nella'" . . .

Comedian Allen, if he bothers to answer (which he probably won't) might ask the representative what he makes of the Allen "true" middle-name . . . Spell that "frontward" and it still spells Florence, which has been known to be the monicker of numerous members of the fair sex . . . Oh, well!

Showman!

Your correspondent, in the presence of several other newspaper workers, made a telephone call last night to a fellow he knows by reputation only, on behalf of a group of young girls from Brookline who wanted to enjoy a day's outing at the gentleman's amusement park.

Each of the young ladies had been given two dollars by their parents to spend on the outing . . . This was in addition to whatever change the kids had been able to accumulate in scrimping on their allowances with "the big day" as their objective . . .

It wasn't a very inconsiderate request for passes . . . Admission to the man's park sells for ten cents . . . The kids would have gotten a real thrill from being admitted free, and would have disbursed their spending-money with that joy of spirit known to gate-crashers . . . As a matter-of-fact, your reporter, and the kids' emissary, really believed he was doing the amusement-park gentleman a favor in shilling business his way . . . The request was turned down . . .

At a possible saving of ninety cents, the astute showman lost at least $20 for his concessions . . . Not to mention the good will of this and two other dozen who occasionally have used his publicity blurbs in their columns . . . So the nine youngsters went to Revere, where there is no admission charge for the privilege of spending their money.

Once Over Lightly:

Dartmouth's representative among the Hollywood producers, Walter Wanger, assured the public on Louella Parsons' radio hour last night that the objections of a foreign country would not deter him from making pictures dealing with contemporary history . . . Wanger produced "Blockade," which is a story based on happenings in Spain, soon to be released . . . In Japan, the censor has changed the title of a Goldwyn picture from "Woman Chases Man" to "The Woman Who Climbs a Tree" . . . Please don't miss John T. Lambert's interesting word-study in tomorrow's Sunday Advertiser on the possibility of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy becoming President . . . The Boston Restaurant Owners' get-together at the Lobby salon of the Bradford Monday will take the form of a celebration. The restaurant owners foresee a change in the statutes making it legal to catch an extra hour's trading in beverages on busy Saturday nights.

Sully Guarogna of South Boston has quoted the late Congressman James A. Gallivan in urging that the Boston Public Library trustees increase the facilities of the E street branch . . . Congressman Gallivan used to call the South Boston library "the poor boys' college."

Governor Earle, who is reported as preparing to withdraw from the political arena, has been corresponding with Sam Berenson, the advertisement-getter . . . Attorney Morris Shultz will seek the Republican nomination for the Governor's council seat from the Second District . . . The greyhound track at Wonderland is switching former "horse-players" to dog-devotees. The "action" is much faster at the dog-tracks. There has been a bigger demand for boxes at Wonderland this season, and a trip to the track seems to be intriguing many of those known respectfully as "our best people" . . . George Tarter will be a candidate for city councillor in Randolph this September.

Gene Brown, editor of "This Week in Boston," is on the mend after an 11-weeks' illness . . . At Strachan, a member of the Boston Stage Employes Union, has been elected president of the Troupers Club, which is composed of stagehands who earn their keep as "road crews" . . . Al Winston, who has been helping manage the Hub Theater is reported as being on the wing, up in Show business.

N. E. Trade Is Nearing Final Low

By HUGH E BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

New England business is approaching the lowest point of the depression, in other words that period when carloadings reached the last turning point and began climbing out of the hole.

Right now there are a few dull items in the statistical picture but there are indications of substantial gains coming weeks. But during the summer months trade will resemble a saucer and not a very deep saucer showing considerable fluctuation.

At present there are hints for cheer, but none too happy with present showings. When Eastman announced the freight car loadings for the first week of June showing by those who follow the figures that they are too low even in these days of calamity howling.

STATE ST. NOTEBOOK

The importance of freight to American railroads is often overlooked by observers who follow passenger revenues . . . When they discover however, there are 41 freight cars in service for each passenger car they change their views

It helps them to appreciate the deflationary effect of the tremendous decline in weekly car loadings figures

Atlantic Coastline Old pay share income record has been running behind a year ago. It is to be hoped income may cover dividend requirements. Dividend will probably run less than 50 per cent in operating profit from 1937 as the New York World Fair is the sponsor. It is estimated about 120 trains will be used.

MARKET POSITION

While the present position of the market is more attractive than at any time during the last half of May, it is not impressive. A fairly good looking base has been built up, but we do not see how it can be expected to support anything more than a technical rally. In our opinion, two to six sessions spent around a low point falls short of constituting a reliable rally base

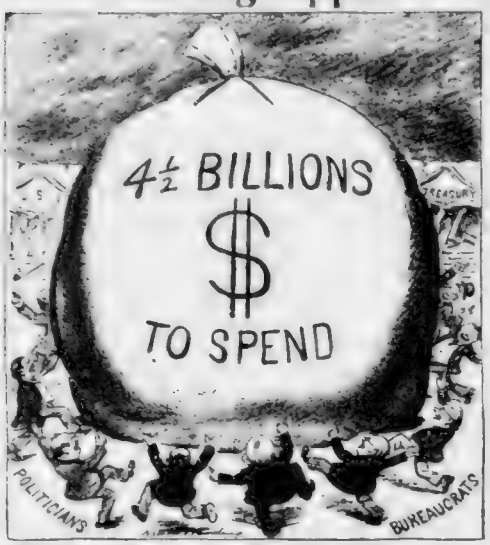
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1938

The Big Apple



The Editor Says:

That was an interesting letter which Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan read aloud in the United States Senate the other day.

It was written by a WPA boss in Missouri to a WPA worker whom he had fired, and who needed work. It said:

This is to advise you that I am willing to help you to get back on this work if you feel you need the work and would like to be reassigned, provided YOU ARE WILLING TO TAKE A BETTER ATTITUDE TOWARD THE ADMINISTRATION AND ITS OPERATIONS.

"This was the cause of your layoff, by order of higher authority. Your work was all right, BUT YOUR ATTITUDE WAS WRONG. I will be glad to help you if you wish to reconsider this matter."

Multiply this incident by all the Federal, Democratic and relief workers in the country, and you know why the Administration wants BILLIONS to spend as it pleases before the next election.

IT IS THE POLITICAL BIG APPLE WITH A VENGEANCE!

THE UNITED STATES should not get into the Sino-Japanese war. There are Communist China and Communist Russia on the one side and Fascist Japan on the other. American democracy does not want to fight for either Communism or Fascism.

America gradually became involved in the last great war by truculent notes and biased attitudes arousing undue antagonism. We should avoid repeating that mistake.

There is no more need for truculent notes to Japan than to Mexico.

AMERICAN PROPERTY has been seized in both countries. The administration's notes to Mexico have been very polite, very sympathetic and encouraging to the Mexican government over a period of years.

We have admitted their right to seize American property.

We recognized their right to exclude American goods by high tariffs in defiance of Mr. Hull's plans for free trade.

We have adopted a good neighbor policy towards radical Mexico.

Should we adopt a different attitude, a truculent attitude, toward reactionary Japan?

Isn't it silly to make fish of one nation and fowl of another?

Won't that policy inevitably lead to war—a war in which America no longer is not concerned?

MR. ROOSEVELT is such a good, generous, liberal neighbor in some distances, why be a bad neighbor, an angry neighbor, an aggressive neighbor in others?

If it is the policy of the administration to be kind and generous to Mexico in money and interests in one instance, why not adopt the same attitude to all cases and keep out of war?

Why, in a word, should the radical tendencies of the Roosevelt administration be allowed to involve this democratic nation in a Communistic war anywhere?

War is a horrible thing. We know it. Keep out of it. Keep politics out of it.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, June 4.

THE Democratic leaders of Congress who have promised the President to put the Reorganization Bill on the agenda for next January will be in no position to deliver the goods.

Being hard-boiled realists—and three of the four main leaders being personally against the bill in the form Mr. Roosevelt desires—doubtless they realized that in preserving the executive dictatorship scheme for this session, they were interring it for good, or at least until there is a change of atmosphere in Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt is going to encounter a different sort of Congress in January.

There are, of course, two chances for this. The next Congress may be Republican in the House of Representatives, or enough Republicans may be elected to constitute a majority with the Democratic conservatives.

Regardless of whether the New Deal majority in the present House is overturned by the November elections, the President will encounter a different sort of Senate next year.

It will be a Democratic Senate but a more independent one. And the members of this Democratic Senate will be centered upon maintaining party control in 1940.

A few conservative Senate Democrats may be defeated in this year's primaries by out-and-out New Dealers.

Where this may happen outside the South, as possibly in Iowa, the New Deal candidate probably will be defeated by his Republican opponent. This in all probability will occur in Oregon.

OF COURSE we have been hearing for five years that Congress was going to turn conservative at some future date.

It did so this spring—until brought back into some semblance of its old subserviency to the White House by the new spending spree bill.

But all the hard-boiled Democratic politicians in Congress realize that this is to be the last debauch with public money.

If this year's spending doesn't turn the tide of panic, the next Congress will have to begin passing some laws to enable business to come back and save the situation itself.

Congress knows that already it is gnawing down close to the core of the golden apple.

Next year there won't be going to be no core.

THIS right now—is the Indian Summer of the New Deal. The amateurs of the inner White House circle who are trying to take over the Democratic party, have disclosed such political ineptitude as to have convinced the old wheel-horses that they can't turn the trick.

They haven't got what Hog Island during the war, used to call the "know how."

CONSIDER what has happened in North Carolina. Young Senator Bob Reynolds, it now appears will be re-elected. He has been a consistent supporter of the New Deal.

But while the opposition to Bob has let up the Democratic state organization has quietly taken control. The chairman of the state convention the other day was a pronounced anti-New Dealer. No Reynolds men are in the newly revamped organization. North Carolina will be in conservative, anti-third-term hands.

The same sort of thing is under way very quietly in other states.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

New Doctors Needed, B. U. Dean Finds

What is the outlook today for the young man just entering the field of medicine? How does today's opportunity compare with that of yesterday for the fledgling who has finished his training and is about to go on his own?

These questions were propounded to Dr. Alexander Begg, dean of the Boston University School of Medicine. And today he makes answer.

By PAUL WHELTON

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

To every medical man who has not yet launched himself upon his own career there is presented one universal problem: SHALL I SPECIALIZE OR SHALL I BE A GENERAL PRACTITIONER?

If his decision is for the first, it means the city, already well established and with a hard road ahead, but with fame and fortune and more regular hours on the horizon.

If the decision is for the second, it means the far places usually, with long and broken hours, small chance for riches but a place in the community that is peculiarly the doctor's own.

YET A SURVEY AT BOSTON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE REVEALS THAT THE GREATEST NUMBER OF ITS MEDICAL STUDENTS PLAN TO BECOME GENERAL PRACTITIONERS IN THE SMALLER COMMUNITIES.

"The opportunity for the young medical student today in the field of practice is as good as it was when I started many years ago," Dr. Alexander Begg said in the course of a survey.

"Of course, a great deal depends upon the individual. Lying around offices and talking about how hard times are is no way to make enough to live and eat on.

"That is entirely wrong.

"THE OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE YOUNG PRACTITIONER IN OUTLYING COMMUNITIES ARE GREATER THAN EVER, AND THE MAJORITY OF THE YOUNG MEDICAL STUDENTS ARE MORE INTERESTED IN DOING GENERAL PRACTITIONER WORK THAN IN THE SPECIALIST'S FIELD.

"I will agree, however, that larger cities are somewhat crowded insofar as the medical profession is concerned, but I do not believe that the situation is one to view with alarm.

"Large cities do not offer as much opportunity as they did a few years past. Those students who do not look with favor on a small town practice must choose to go in for specialist's work.

"That field I believe, will become more and more popular soon. The 1938 student is becoming adapted to the plan of consulting a specialist in the particular classification where the patient's ailment falls.

"THIS YEARS CLASS AT BOSTON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE HAS ALREADY BEEN PLACED AS INTERNES IN MANY HOSPITALS. A SURVEY HAS SHOWN THAT THE GREATER NUMBER PLAN TO FOLLOW GENERAL PRACTITIONER WORK AND HANG THEIR SHINGLES IN TOWNS OR SMALLER CITIES, WHERE THE CHANCES FOR ESTABLISHMENT AND ADVANCEMENT WILL BE BETTER.

"The depression, of course, is a problem in medical circles, as it is in other lines.

"Thus the young doctor beginning his practice must be satisfied temporarily with a reduced income while the recession lasts.

DOCTORS, GENERALLY, ARE EXPECTED TO DO MORE DURING DEPRESSION PERIODS, WITHOUT FEES THAN EVEN IN NORMAL TIMES.

WHEN A MAN IS UNEMPLOYED, PARTICULARLY A MAN WHO HAS A FAMILY, A GREAT DEAL OF WORRY AND MENTAL SUFFERING ALSO RESULTS.

Under such conditions the mind and body do not function properly and illness comes.

"WORRY CAN DO A GREAT DEAL MORE THAN THE ORDINARY PERSON REALLY UNDERSTANDS TO TEAR DOWN ONES PHYSICAL ENGINE.

"It is principally for this reason that we find doctors in the smaller industrial communities to be the hardest hit among the profession during dull periods.

"As regards a comparison between doctors of the present day and those of the past, I believe that fundamentally there is little, if any, difference.

"The advance has been in the field of medical science itself.

"THE FIELD OF MEDICINE HAS INCREASED AND IMPROVED TREMENDOUSLY SINCE MYSELF AND MY COLLEAGUES WERE GRADUATED FROM MEDICAL SCHOOL.

"One of the greatest advances has been in PREVENTIVE medicine, and of course modern scientific hospital and laboratory equipment is so far ahead of what the oldsters first had to work with that there can be no comparison worthy of the term.

"We find generally that people look upon the older doctors as being outstanding. That attitude, I suppose, is only human.

"HOWEVER, WHEN TODAY'S YOUNG DOCTOR REACHES AN AGE BETWEEN 50 AND 60, HE, TOO, WILL HAVE ATTAINED THE HEIGHTS AND HE WILL BE LOOKED UPON WITH MORE FAVOR THAN HIS YOUNGER COLLEAGUES. IT IS A CYCLE.

"This is despite the unquestioned fact that the doctor of today receives a better training in the medical school and during his internship than I received, or that those of my time received.

"But despite this constantly improving training, every young man starting out in medical practice finds it tough sledding at the takeoff.

"IT SEEMS A LONG TIME BEFORE HEADWAY IS GAINED, BUT EVENTUALLY IT COMES."

Girl About Town -:- by Betty Di Pesa

GAGLAND Hollywood is a land of "gags," according to friends who have made the trek out and come back to visit. Dorothy Speare, author and scenario writer, now vacationing on her native Cape Cod, was relating a few movie-dides the other evening

Betty Di Pesa

The moral of most of Dorothy's tales was that to achieve success in the studio city you must be more spectacular than the next fellow. To coin a word, you must "out-gag" your neighbor, i. e. do something better.

Dorothy related the success of an executive at one of the major studios. He started in a menial position and had a cubbyhole office.

He might have been just one of the milling crowd, but our friend had imagination.

He knew the "sweets" of life are popular. So he furnished his office as a candy shop. He crammed the drawers of his desk with chocolates. He piled the shelves of the room high with the stuff. The room literally burst with sweets.

And people began dropping in for a piece. Executives like candy, too. And they came. The young man won their notice. He was promoted and sent up the ladder.

Today, at the top, he attributes it all to his candy-shop office idea.

SOUND EFFECTS They're still playing it the song, "And the Merry-Go-Round Broke Down." Or, maybe, it's making a comeback.

However, our nomination for the best rendition in the trio at the Copley-Plaza Merry Go-Round.

With the crash of dishes, trays and glasses as the proper time, the merry-go-round does break down. Or at least to all appearances, it does.

MY NEW YORKER friend writes the big city has a new night club pertinently called Elbow Room. It is said to be a product of the mind of Alexander Woollcott.

It is the answer to the famous cry for privacy. No columnists are allowed unless they leave their pencils outside. Everything to be seen or heard is to be off record. To err is to be dropped from the membership rolls, which is limited to three hundred.

The Elbow Room is devoid of all cafe society trappings. In their place are substituted chairs and divans conducive to conversation. And as the name indicates you may move without jeopardizing life or limb.

SPEAKING OF THE ELBOW one intellectualist recently remarked she preferred "Gone With the Wind," to "Anthony Adverse" because it made her elbow ache less.

PARADOX: Someone remarked in conversation the other day that only a rather dull fellow could write a good travel book. The speaker's contention was that a lively creative man cannot tie himself down to describing houses inhabitants and mountains. Had you ever thought of it that way?

A Costly Folly -:- by Hugh S. Johnson

WASHINGTON The St. Lawrence Seaway, or shipway or deep seaway has a biting sound in whichever way it is spoken. Under the proposed treaty with Canada that our State Department has just prepared, the Middle West is led to believe that it will get an ocean frontage. A vision is conjured of great ocean liners tying up at docks at Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee and all points west as far as Duluth. Cheaper freight rates for wheat and all the products of our great "bread-basket" country to foreign ports is pure net gain for the farmer since the price is usually made abroad. Maybe an all-water passenger service to the seven seas will appear.

Gen. Johnson

Thus pretty general Midwestern support is being ballyhooed into rooting for what is in fact largely a local New York State power project. That part of the cost of this development which is necessary for power and would not be necessary for navigation will prove to be easily two thirds of a total staggering cost. That would not be so bad if the cost for navigation for deep draft vessels would buy anything worth the money. The great canal builder Goethals and other experts thought it would not.

THERE ARE MANY reasons for this conclusion. One is the slow speed imposed on vessels of powerful propellers in canals and canalized waterways. That, plus the magnificent distances and delays and difficulties of passing locks makes the probable cost of either freight or passenger operation prohibitive in competition with other forms of transportation.

It is too much a matter of expert conclusion to say flatly that if that waterway is built it will never float an ocean-going ship past Lake Erie but it is highly probable that that would prove true.

Legally, the Federal Government is not supposed to go into the manufacture of power, except as power is incidentally produced in its proper function of improving waters for navigation. That principle is developing a pious and very costly fraud—fake navigation projects to permit the generation of power.

CANADA doesn't want this white elephant for many of the reasons here stated and because she has an excess of power. Yet, it needs Canadian consent, and so we now propose to pay all its tremendous costs in the first years of construction and also to give them more water at Niagara Falls where they have more than their share already.

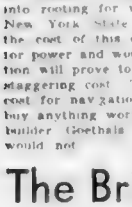
The Brighter Side -:- by Damon Runyon

IT USED to be said that there was a broken heart for every light on Broadway. We always thought this an exaggeration. Medical reports failed to indicate that the proportion of hearts on Broadway susceptible of breaking was ever even close to the light. If they had said broken cafe checks we might have believed it.



Damon Runyon

The only thing there is for every light on Broadway is a discarded wad of chewing gum on the sidewalks as recently disclosed by the Outdoor Cleanliness Association. This does not include the wads of chewing gum stuck under the seats in the movie houses, of course, or even those off of the chairs. We have said all we care to about that ourself.

This is not a complaint, understand. As an old gum chewer who let the wads fall where they may, we are scarcely in a position to criticise gum juggernauts. As a matter of fact, we never knew until a few years ago that the underside of chairs and tables have any other purpose than as judgments for worn out wads of gum.

WE MUST TELL you about the Outdoor Cleanliness Association. It has a crew of men out in the cold gray dawn of these mornings cleaning the sidewalks of Broadway with soap and chemicals. When we say cold gray dawn, we speak advisedly, though June is upon us. The weather hereabouts lately has been even more unusual than the most unusual weather in Florida or California and that is very unusual, indeed.

The idea of all this cleansing of the sidewalks is to make Broadway spick and span against the coming of the World's Fair crowds. True, the World's Fair is not scheduled until 1939, but the Outdoor Cleanliness Association probably figures that it is a good scheme to get New York accustomed by degrees to seeing the sidewalks of Broadway nice and clean.

WE WERE a most indefatigable gum chewer in our time. We chewed it at all times and in all places, and with gusto and sound. None of that vague, remote gum chewing in which the jaws move just ever so slightly for us. We believed that opening and closing the mouth with a wide sweeping motion added zest to gum chewing.

WE SPEAK in the past tense of our gum chewing because we were deprived of that extra pleasure when Doc Girden found it necessary to build a replica of the George Washington bridge in our mouth.

It ruined the "pop" of the gum and also presented certain physical and mental hazards to gum chewing that we have been unable to overcome.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW OLD ARE YOU? That's a tremendous, important question. All your power and popularity, your happiness and success depend upon it. Never was it so important to be young at heart. Never was age so cruelly penalized. Whatever you do, wherever you go you face that challenge. HOW OLD ARE YOU?

No use looking in the calendar or the mirror for the answer to that question. Neither looks nor birthdays reveal your real age. Nor can you prove you're staying young by being the Village Cut Up . . . rushing through beauty parlors, sports events and night spots, spreading synthetic hilarity. They do that sort of thing in any simple-minded institution. The real secret of youth lies elsewhere.

Elsie Robinson

It lies in the FLEXIBILITY OF YOUR MIND . . . in your ability to be curious . . . to wonder and ask questions . . . to risk and test.

Recently, while addressing the New York Medical Society, Dr. Foster Kennedy, noted psychologist and nerve specialist . . . whose comments on child-training we have previously quoted . . . said:

"The sense of wonder is the yard stick of the growth of our minds and hearts. If we lose it at 20—and many do—we are senile. If we keep it at 60—and many do—we have outdone Faust."

You fear age? You long to retain the sparkling freshness of youth . . . the leaping eagerness that sings through every vein . . . the red-lipped, starry-eyed delight?

Then stop worrying about diets and beauty creams, dances and dates, and ask yourself these questions, if you dare:

HOW OFTEN DO I WONDER ABOUT LIFE . . . ABOUT MYSELF?

HOW CURIOUS AM I ABOUT PEOPLE AND CONDITIONS?

HOW OFTEN DO I REBEL AGAINST A COMFORTABLE RUT?

HOW OFTEN DO I DELIBERATELY SEEK AND FACE CRITICISM?

HOW OFTEN DO I ACCEPT THAT CRITICISM AND DARE TO MAKE CHANGES IN MYSELF . . . DARE TO RISK NEW THOUGHTS, NEW CUSTOMS?

HOW OFTEN DO I JUNK MY OLD OPINIONS AND MAKE A FRESH MENTAL START?

THESE are strenuous questions for anyone to face—and not one in a thousand has the courage to answer them honestly. They are like the tough "work-outs," the icy showers, the harsh rub-downs which keep an athlete in trim.

But few wish to be mental or spiritual athletes! We want "to stay young"—yes, indeed. But we forget that change and revolt, hardship, risk and adventure are the very essence of vigorous growing youth . . . they are the 'work-out' which keeps the blood tingling and the mind alert.

Again Dr. Kennedy says, "REGRET AND REMORSE ARE UTTERLY STERILE EMOTIONS. DO NOT TRY TO WALK LOOKING BACKWARDS."

And once more one remembers the old story of Lot and his wife, whom alone God had decided to save from a wicked people and whom He ordered to flee forthwith, without backward look, from doomed Sodom and Gomorrah. But Lot's wife was torn at the thought of her lost home: of the dear memories of girlhood and young motherhood. So, turning, she gave one last backward look—AND IN THAT MOMENT WAS TRANSFORMED INTO A PILLAR OF SALT.

So we, for sacrifice progress for the dear but deadly sweetness of "looking back" . . . of day-dreaming of yesterday, rather than leaping forward into tomorrow . . . of grieving for the past, rather than mapping with the present.

How old are you? YOU'RE AS OLD AS YOU'RE SATISFIED . . . YOU'RE AS YOUNG AS YOU'RE EAGER!

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE Trailerites are now detouring gracefully through the sovereign State of New Jersey, whose motto is liberty and prosperity unless otherwise notified. It is known as the Garden State because of the immense number of potted geraniums in window boxes.

New Jersey is one of the 13 original states, and Washington crossed the Delaware into New Jersey rather than spend a Sunday in Philadelphia. The violet is the state flower, and the pay crap is backgammon at Atlantic City.

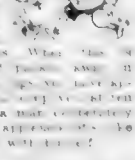
It was at Trenton that Washington defeated the British on schedule and as advertised. So they painted George standing in a rowboat, which is a scene unique in any man's navy. The river was full of cracked ice at the time, which is almost perfect Hessel service.

The original settlers of Jersey were the Lanni Lenape of the great Algonquin Indian family, who were peaceful farmers and therefore easily eliminated. From this we get that famous on-guessing slogan of Buzzy Appleton's.

Always cut the kids. You won't win. But you'll last longer.

The first white settlers of Jersey were those that left Sweden because of the cold and established a settlement known as New Jersey Applejack.

Applejack is made by leaving a barrel of apple cider to get hard and then freeze. A reverse of what is then formed through the ice. In the center of the barrel is the applejack. It comes out clear as crystal, but becomes yellow when drawn off and looks like it has been filtered through the bark of a tree. It is a drink that will knock you off your pins. When a man is definitely quoted, he's apt to be fighting a duel with it.



Applejack must be drunk neat, because nothing mixes well with it, especially matrimony.

Dancer Tells Key to Fame

By ANN MARSTERS

Dance teams come and go. And, in general, there is little to distinguish them, one from the other. Most of them, which you see in the night clubs about town, are fairly good, fairly attractive—yet they slip from your memory as soon as they disappear from the dance floor.

of something very young, very American, and very gay. Certainly we were not going to imitate other dance teams which have become famous for their exotic and poetic units. We want to be a bit different.'

And that is exactly what they are. Their dances are typically American, and they get a thrill out of expressing the spirit of America in their dancing.

MET IN LONDON

"And that's where I met Don," she said. He comes, originally, from Ohio but he had been dancing in London and had just broken up with his partner. We got to talking about dancing—and decided to dance together."

The team of Lopez and Barrat is now an established one and they're looking forward to a successful season in America as well as abroad.

FROM WITHIN

"It isn't," she said, "the intricacy of the steps they do, or their talent for dancing which makes dance teams successful. It's an expression from within.

"So many teams leave no lasting impression simply because of an inability to do anything but dance.

"Don and I are trying to build up that 'expression from within.' We want to give the impression

Cuban Love Interest

JUNGLE FEVER—Virginia Bruce, heroine of "Yellow Jack," an artistic triumph, if not financial success, on the Broadway stage four years ago and which is now on the screen at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters.

'Yellow Jack' Shifts Drama for Box Office

"Yellow Jack," the Broadway play of four years ago, now clicked with critics first with the public next in Loew's State and Orpheum theaters yesterday.

It may as well be promptly stated that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has altered the Sidney Howard-Paul de Kruif drama to take care of that vital department—the box office.

In adapting the play, which was based on de Kruif's thrilling, absorbing book, "Microbe Hunters," Script-Writer Edward Chodorov and M. G. M. have missed a rare opportunity to make a magnificent picture of Major Walter Reed's heroic experiments with yellow fever, or "yellow jack" as it was called by our soldiers in Cuba terrorized.

Instead, the spotlight is focused consistently on the romance of a soldier and a nurse portrayed by Robert Montgomery and Virginia Bruce.

MORE ROMANCE

There is infinitely more romance in Reed's selfless fight on the mysterious yellow fever and in the death-risking courage of his medical corps volunteers—but not in Hollywood's lexicon.

Which is not to say that "Yellow Jack" is not an exciting production, well-acted by a competent cast and possessed of a certain amount of dramatic suspense.

Montgomery is persuasive as the picture's Sergeant Tom O'Hara, though why he should be called upon to handle a brogue you could cut with a knife is past this Irish American writer's power to explain.

Miss Bruce is one of the most [illegible] actresses of [illegible] performance. Like Montgomery, Virginia brings her portrayal to a high pitch of key with no [illegible] (Only I can be right.)

Rockport Opens Season July 7

The Rockport Theater Guild will initiate its season on Thursday evening, July 7, by presenting George Kelly's comedy, "The Torch Bearers," in Lucy Jerne Locker's unusual little theater centered in the North Shore's summer resort sector.

Pastor-McCoy Go Is Ring Natural | Al Has Chance To Win Fame

By JACK CONWAY

Al McCoy, who has been demanding a title bout with Joe Louis, will receive the golden opportunity of his career when he clashes with Bob Pastor of New York in a ten-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden on June 20.

Mr. Boston

Pastor gave Louis such a scare when he went ten rounds with him a year ago last Winter that the "Brown Bomber" has refused to give him a return match. Pastor believes that the best way to force the champion to meet him is by keeping active in the ring. Bob recently returned from a campaign in California where he won three straight bouts.

Pastor has displayed startling punching power in his matches this year, and is of the opinion he will knock McCoy out. I talked with the colorful Jimmy Johnston over the long distant telephone after the Pastor-McCoy bout was closed. I asked Johnston what he thought would happen in the Pastor-McCoy tussle.

"Pastor will knock McCoy out," declared Johnston. "Pastor is the best heavyweight in the world today. He would blind either Louis or Schmeling if they had courage enough to enter a ring with him.

"Since Pastor gave Louis a boxing lesson a year ago last Winter, the so called 'Brown Bomber' won't meet him again.

"Last September when Louis used the excuse of an injured hand to avoid a meeting with Schmeling I offered Max $100,000 to take on Pastor. His answer was an emphatic NO!

"Pastor was a sensation in his recent campaign in California. After Pastor knocks out McCoy he will go shooting for a bout with the winner of the Louis-Schmeling contest. Pastor would be a cinch to lick either Joe or Max."

Johnston thought Jim Braddock, Joe Louis and Lou Ambers [illegible]

McCoy Training in New York

McCOY WAS elated when he received word Pastor had agreed to meet him in Boston.

"This is my chance to prove I rate a bout with Joe Louis," declared McCoy. "Boxing fans and experts agree Pastor is one of the world's leading heavyweights. If I beat him, it will be difficult to deny me a crack at Louis.

"I named Louis as I think the champion will be successful in defending his title against Max Schmeling when they clash in a 15 round bout at the Yankee Stadium on June 22."

McCoy is training at Lou Stillman's Gym, New York for a ten-round bout with Hans Haverlick, Hungarian champion, in Montreal on June 9.

The Haverlick bout will be McCoy's first ring start since his marriage to a Montreal [illegible]

Armstrong Agrees to Box Here

IT IS NOW definite that Henry Armstrong, holder of the world's featherweight and welterweight championships will box in Boston in the Fall. Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Good win A. C. came to terms with Eddie Meade, manager of Armstrong, during a conference in New York.

I asked Valenti whom he would pit against Armstrong.

"There are three suitable opponents," said Valenti. "They are Sammy Fuller, George Martin and Ralph Zanelli. I am going to permit the fans to decide which of these three men they would like to see Armstrong meet. As far as the double champion is concerned, he will take on anybody. It is great to do business with a boxer who doesn't wish to hand pick his opponent."

Armstrong will help boxing everywhere if he keeps active. He will give boxing promoters in all parts of the country an opportunity to make money as a result of his drawing power.

If Armstrong defeats Lou Ambers on July 26, and he figures to do so, he will be a triple world's champion when he shows in Boston.

Miss Vahey State Golf Favorite

By BILL GRIMES

There are going to be many upsets in the women's state golf championship during the early rounds [illegible] Monday at the Belmont Country Club.

Instead of seeding the outstanding players, the W. G. A committee employs the numerical system in making the pairings for match play.

Under this system the [illegible] of a few topnotch contestants to play up to standard during the qualifying round invariably causes a goodly portion of the strength of the field to be drawn in the same [illegible]

For example, Deborah Verry, the defending champion, had a bad day in the qualifying round, posting a 93.

Now it's sufficiently humiliating for a champion, to [illegible] two strokes on [illegible] without incurring any further penalty, which was [illegible] Miss Verry, who was drawn in the same quarter as Miss Wright, Jessie Mae Hill [illegible] Miss Verry [illegible] and Miss Hill [illegible]

Deborah Verry

[illegible] Now it's a cinch that one of the other finalists will be crowned here.

South Shore Set for Climb

While Salem and Sandy River [illegible] maintaining cool [illegible] in the [illegible] of the Metropolitan Four Ball League South Shore Golf Club [illegible] the Tedesco at West Hingham should recover some of the ground lost a week ago.

Judge Joseph W. Monahan, who is captain of Sandy River will have the strongest team available at Salem.

The Wayland team is trailing Salem by one and one half points and this match may be decided by the smallest possible margin.

South Shore is [illegible] four points behind the [illegible] while Tedesco is [illegible] and has met eight [illegible] than it has won.

On their home course the South Shore players should set a pace far too hot for the Swampscott aggregation to hold and they have a chance of moving right back into the thick of the race by coming through with a tepheary victory.

Thorny Lea, the defending champion, is playing Framingham at Brockton and should improve its standing in the race. Norfolk hopes to move into the first division by swamping Bear Hill, and Trapelo looks for a win over Bellevue.

Trapelo Honors Wright

Instead of holding a playoff, the W. G. A. committee will give both Mrs. Warren Beard and Rosamond Vahey gold medals for topping the field with 81's during the women's state qualifying round at Belmont Country Club . . . Mrs. Edward C. Stone, who won the W. G. A. title the last time the championship was played at Belmont, is vacationing in Switzerland . . . Lee Barnard, runner up in the 1928 Czechoslovakia open, has been appointed to the golf committee at Belmont . . . The Bay State, Rhode Island and Connecticut teams are playing the Inter-State matches today at Kittansett . . . And Freddie Wright, six time winner of the state amateur championship is being honored by the Trapelo Golf Club . . . Mrs. Sidney Rogal, Pine Brook Valley, is ill and unable to play at Belmont . . . During the next home stay of the Bees, the Winthrop Lodge of Elks will hold a Tony Boeckal Day at National League Field . . . Margaret Curtis, Essex County, who qualified in the 36th state championship, won that title as far back as 1901 . . . The late Fanny Osgood and Mrs. F. H. Baker, Jr., have won the state crown five times apiece, while Margaret Curtis captured it four times between 1901 and 1914 . . . Pleased to note that Vince DiMaggio came up with one of the three hits the Bees made off Bill Lee . . . Everyone that knows Vince is pulling for him to hit a cool million . . . Jack Onslow is lining up a number of college stars for the Bees and the other major league clubs will be surprised when they learn what handsome John has plucked . . . Although one hasn't even received honorable mention, Mrs. C. Hugh Winthrop, has been one of the most consistent winners in W. G. A. team matches for two years . . . GRIMES.

NEW YORK, June 4 (INS)—Ten individual favorites ran true to form as the qualifying heats were run off on the 42nd annual track and field championships at Franklin Field Stadium.

As expected University of Southern California and most men in the finals, with Cornell, California and Pitt in close attendance.

Pitt's great Olympic champion, Lang John Woodruff, was the outstanding performer of the day as he raced to victory in his quarter and half mile heats.

His 47.4 for the quarter includes a [illegible] performance. Also he broke up with Miller of N. Y. U. and Herbert of N. Y. U. in the finals [illegible] Irving Haswell [illegible] of R. I. Lefty Seeks Ninth Victory

Vernon Kennedy and Mose Grove, the major league's two leading pitchers at this writing, will display their wares during the three-game Red Sox-Tigers series, starting at the Fens this afternoon.

A Sunday duel between the pair would come close to packing the Yawkey Yard, but as the rival clubs are more interested in winning games than creating big gates the aces won't be pitted against each other.

Grove, who had won eight straight for the Sox before he was licked by the Yanks his last time out, will step out this p. m. in an effort to start another victory surge.

Kennedy, ex-White Sox right-hander, who has silenced the Detroit critiedam of the Tigers-Chicox mid-winter trade by winning eight games in a row without suffering a defeat, won't work until tomorrow and maybe not until Monday.

Vernon Kennedy

All of which proves that baseball is still more a sport than a business.

Two of Grove's eight triumphs have been gained at the expense of the Bengals. And those happen to be the only games the Sox have taken from the Cochrane crew in five starts this season.

The Tigers, by Mickey Cochrane's own admission, played their best ball of the year in their two earlier series with the Sox.

Maybe the Bengals won't be so hot this time, coming here, as they do, right after taking three lickings in four starts against the Yanks.

Brady Captains All-Catholic Nine

By FRANK CONWAY

Hurling 13 victories in 15 times on the mound is enough to merit John "Diamond Johnny" Brady of Cathedral High the captaincy of the 1938 Boston Evening American All-Catholic baseball nine.

So today, in printing the star-studded contingent, the gangling six-foot righthander, who has twirled 22 winning games in the last two seasons at Cathedral, is rated head and shoulders above any other member of the annual team.

Cathedral, currently pacing the Catholic High League, has played exactly 16 contests this spring and believe it or not, this same Mr. Brady, an ironman if there ever was one, has pitched every one of the 1 tilts.

Going into yesterday's skirmish with Brookline St. Mary's, Diamond Johnny offered a record of 153 strikeouts, three shutouts and only 47 walks.

His excellent flinging and his fine competitive spirit of fight and hustle have played a paramount role in the remarkable success Jack McCarthy's machine has been having this spring.

Certainly, then, a better leader could not be named to head the 1938 All-Catholic team.

Moore Slip Costs Game in Chicago

By WALTER KILEY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 4—Three of the Bees' "grand old men" are waiting the call to arms as the four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals opens today at Sportsman Park.

Jim Turner, who smacks his lips with relish over his recent 6-0 whitewash of the Giants, tries today to get the Stengelmen back to winning ways.

Danny MacFayden and Mil Shoffner are being reserved for tomorrow's important double header.

The fourth of the ancient gentlemen, Lou Fette, was hardly treated with just deserts in the finale with the Chicago Cubs.

It was partly Fette's own fault, partly the masterful efforts of General Bill Lee, his rival. But, perhaps more than anything else, it was the failure of his team mates to hit behind him, a fault which is becoming a habit when Lou is in there.

The Bees have scored only 13 runs in a stretch of 70 innings pitched by Fette.

They came up with only three hits off Lee, four hits in the 1-to-0, 13-inning whitewash by Brooklyn on Sunday.

And at that it took a bad break to bring about his downfall in the Chicago windup.

When the usually reliable Gene Moore lost Augie Galan's fourth inning deep right field fly, perhaps through fear of crashing into the grandstand wall for the second day running, Fette went to pieces temporarily.

Gene Moore

The result was walks to the next two men, and before you could say Jack Robinson three large runs, more than enough to insure the verdict, were tucked away beyond r call.

But there was no disgrace in losing to Lee, who has now taken his place as the most brilliant flinger the National League has turned up this season.

That same southern gentleman has won five straight games, four of them shut outs, and only one run has been produced against him in 46 innings.

Billy McGee, who pulled out a six hit, 3 to 2 win over the Bees when they last hit the Mississippi port, comes back at them today.

Preeminent Races Cross Bow Again

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP)—Preeminent, beaten by a nose in a thrilling stretch battle with Cross Bow II last week, squared off for another turf duel with Mrs. Warren Wright's entry at Lincoln Fields today in the featured $5000 handicap over seven furlongs.

Preeminent, as last week, was the early favorite among the 17 overnight nominations.

Cross Bow II, carrying three more pounds than last week but still three under the top impost assigned Preeminent, was a second choice in the betting along with Mrs. Kirby Ramsey's Mucho Gusto.

Five other outstanding contenders were Arab's Arrow, Mountain Ridge, King's Blue, Leading Article and Cardarrone.

Rich Twirls Civics to Tie For East Lead

The completion of the fourth week in the Boston Park League saw the surprising Brighton Civics, behind two-hit hurling by Bobby Rich, jumping into a three-way tie for the lead in the east division with Mass. Knitting and the McDonoughs, while St. Augustines, with eight in a row, and the Roslindale Townies, with five in succession, topping the field in the west loop.

The Brighton boys, reaching their highest point in their two-year play in top league ball, have justified the confidence that Charley Coffey and Frank MacDonald placed in them before the season opened. Charley Heintz, Chick Lee and Rich form the backbone of the Civics, and their current streak means they will make a spirited bid for the top honors this summer.

Mass. Knitting, dropping their third consecutive game, must get some pitching or they will fall down a few pegs next week. The McDonoughs have been none too steady of late, and with Dick Casey's club, idle last night, finding itself after a shaky start, the east race looms as torrid.

In the west, St. Augustine's, with a well-rounded pitching staff, and some heavy hitters, is setting a hot pace with eight straight wins.

Roslindale Townies, who have a victory string of five games, are just a game behind, and will get a chance to take the lead tomorrow when they play the Maddens at Healy field in a postponed game.

Hyde Park, finding the going a bit tougher after a sensational start, is in third place, with St. Ambrose jumping the Maddens and Agnews last night into fourth spot by winning their second game in as many nights.

U. S. Trails in 5 Walker Cup Matches

Ward Shatters Jones' Record

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, June 4 (AP)—Great Britain's determined Walker Cup golfers, scenting their first victory since the competition was inaugurated in 1922, today were leading their United States rivals in five of the eight singles matches at the end of the morning 18 holes, after gaining a 2-1 lead in yesterday's Scotch foursomes.

Only Charley Yates of Atlanta, winner of the British amateur title last Saturday; Marvin (Bud) Ward of Olympia, Wash., and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., could gain the upper hand at the halfway mark.

Ward turned in the most brilliant performance of the matches to date as he fired a 67, six under par and one shot better than Bobby Jones' amateur course record, to go six up on Frank Pennink, English amateur champion the last two years.

U. S. MARGINS SLIM

The margins held by Yates and Billows were much less impressive. The Atlantan, only one up after the first nine despite a fine 33, finished with a 70 to be three up on 18-year-old Jim Bruen, the Irish sensation, in the No. 1 match, and Billows clung tenaciously to his first-nine advantage to go to lunch leading Cecil Ewing, giant Irishman, who was the finalist against Yates last week, one up.

In the other five matches, Hector Thomson of Scotland was six up on U. S. amateur champion Johnny Goodman, who was spattering irons all over the place and missing his putts; Leonard Crawley was 4 up on Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati; Charles Stowa 1 up on Charles (Chuck) Kocsis of Detroit; Gordon Peters 3 up on stocky Reynolds Smith of Dallas, and Alex Kyle 1 up on slim Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans.

WARD IN SPOTLIGHT

Despite the fact that the Americans, needing to win five of today's matches to retain the trophy they have won in each of the previous nine series, were teetering on the brink of defeat, the story of the morning round was Ward.

Out in 32, four under par, and four up at that point, the Pacific coast youngster hardly let up at all. He came home in 35, two under standard figures, and didn't lose a single hole all the way.

Though match play scores usually are not accepted as course records, since several putts generally are conceded, Ward's 67 should be, for Pennink seemed to take a delight in making the westerner hole every putt, even if it was only six inches.

QUIMET HOPEFUL

U. S. team captain, Francis Quimet of Boston, gathered his boys together at a hotel adjoining the course at noon and said he thought the Americans still would win all the close matches.

"If Fischer gets one or two back from Crawley going out, he'll probably win the key match of the day," Quimet said.

Kocsis, who finally regained his touch on the back nine, will be hard to beat and Haas, finishing with two birdies that cut Kyle's margin from three up at 9 to one up at 18, may have the stuff to turn the tide.

The surprise of the day was Goodman, who made one of the baldest errors of his life at the fourth green and completely lost his touch after that. One up on Thomson at that point, Johnny missed a one-foot putt, lost a hole he should have won, and played shakily from then on.

GOODMAN WAY OFF

"If just once over here I could get started sinking them, I think I'd sink fifty," he said. "I can't remember when I've putted worse."

Here's what the others had to say about their games:

Ward—"I guess that was just about the best round I've ever played in my life. I finally was able to see the line on these greens."

Fischer—"I hit the ball all right but I can't get my putts to drop. Maybe I'll get them this afternoon."

Casey Starts Training Here

Steve (Crusher) Casey, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, starts training here today for his title defense against Yvon Robert, brilliant Montreal matman, at Boston Garden Tuesday night, June 14.

The title-holder, except for a slightly discolored eye given him in a match with Ed Don George, appears in splendid trim. He had two matches in Canada this week and came through both with flying colors.

Tatterdemalion Wilson's Best

By DAVE WILSON
Selections for Fast Track
BEST BET—Gold Thorn, 1st Race

Tatterdemalion, hard-luck horse in the recently-run Dixie Handicap at Pimlico, figures best in the $10,000 added Paul Revere Handicap, mile and one-sixteenth feature at Suffolk Downs today.

Tatterdemalion put in his final training licks at Belmont Park under the watchful eyes of astute Tom Healy. He is coming up trained to the very letter of perfection.

FIRST RACE
Gold Thorn, Coya, Salian

GOLD THORN shapes up as the day's most probable winner. Barely beaten by Funderburg in most recent race, he needs only to duplicate that splendid performance. COYA, second to Lunsford recently, shapes up next best in what appears to be strictly a two-horse race. Faint-hearted SALIAN is fancied for the show award.

SECOND RACE
Macbob, R. Pinchot, Determined

MAEBOB, a notorious front-runner, has little to carry him along in the early stages and needs only proper rating to insure brackets. R. PINCHOT finished in front of the selection in a recent race and should prove troublesome in the late stages. DETERMINED is a keen money possibility on best races.

THIRD RACE
Maemute, Night Chase, Evening Time

MAEMUTE, second to Bryonia in most recent race, is a natural preference over less-capable rivals in the second. NIGHT CHASE would have beaten EVENING TIME in her last race, but for lugging into the deep going next to the inner rail.

FOURTH RACE
Pokeaway, Bartering Kate, Victorious Ann

POKEAWAY shellacked Superwick in his last start. He needs only to run back to that splendid endeavor. BARTERING KATE was none too-well ridden when beaten in her most recent essay by Odd Blue. VICTORIOUS ANN is improved and will bear watching.

FIFTH RACE
Bloomer Girl, Miss Hollywood, Laconic

BLOOMER GIRL won a six furlongs sprint going away the other day, and this increased yardage should prove right to her measure. MISS HOLLYWOOD, second to Brogan in most recent race, looms as the only danger. LACONIC figures next best under the weight arrangements.

SIXTH RACE
Tatterdemalion, Busy K., Finance

TATTERDEMALION will have BUSY K. to drub. The latter finished second to Pompoon and a full length in advance of the top selection in the Dixie Stakes. With only a weight shift of three pounds against his chances, he may prove a difficult nut to crack.

SEVENTH RACE
Manrico, Tobacco, Kievson

MANRICO, third to slump in most recent essay, shapes up vastly superior to less-capable rivals in the seventh. Throw out TOBACCO'S dull effort of the other day, and the Transmute filly gets an all dangerous figure.

EIGHTH RACE
Happy Flag, Leonard Wilson, Brass Monkey

HAPPY FLAG, with only a feather of 103 pounds up, looks all over a repeater in the eighth. LEONARD WILSON won his only start of the meeting in hand, and he shapes up slightly better than BRASS MONKEY, who is right at tops.

Jim's Niece Wilson's Best At Agawam

By DAVE WILSON
Selections for fast track.
BEST BET—JIM'S NIECE, 5TH RACE

Jim's Niece, which barely missed dru'bing Flying Ariel for major honors in her most recent race, should make amends at the expense of less capable rivals in the six furlongs of the fifth stanza at Agawam Park today.

FIRST RACE
Choice Goods, Old Dominion, Pompeius

CHOICE GOODS needed his last race. OLD DOMINION is reported fit and ready. POMPEIUS has enough class to win.

SECOND RACE
Chance Queen, Fredrick, Wacoche

CHANCE QUEEN gets the figure. FREDRICK won his most recent start and looms all dangerous. WACOCHE will run coupled with Fredrick and must be respected.

THIRD RACE
Heather Time, Higher Bracket, Modern Youth

HEATHER TIME was a champion in west coast competition. HIGHER BRACKET has a good Belmont record. MODERN YOUTH is a possibility on best races.

FOURTH RACE
Mr. Duncannon, Eldee, Free Again

MR. DUNCANNON should be right at home over this shorter route. ELDEE looms all dangerous on his last race. FREE AGAIN should be on the front end as far as he cares to go.

FIFTH RACE
Jim's Niece, Sure Cloud, Foliage

JIM'S NIECE looks all over the day's safest hazard. Contention, if any, may be furnished by faint-hearted SURE CLOUD. FOLIAGE should crash the screen test.

SIXTH RACE
Dark Beau, Unheralded, Searover 2nd.

DARK BEAU is worthy of another chance. UNHERALDED gets a big speed rating. SEAROVER 2ND raced well on the west coast.

SEVENTH RACE
Beaver Lake, Atonement 2nd, Golden X.

BEAVER LAKE should find this abbreviated route right to measure. ATONEMENT SECOND missed by the narrowest of margins in her last race, GOLDEN X dopes well and cannot be despised.

EIGHTH RACE
Victory Miss, Just Gal, Durwrack

VICTORY MISS should lead from flag-fall to wire. JUSTA GAL figures to race improved. DURWRACK likes an "off" track.

Keller Back, Belting Ball

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Charley Keller, having given the International League pitching fraternity a breathing spell for a couple of weeks, got back into the spirit of the thing during the past seven days and promptly returned to the top of the loop's hitting race.

The Newark Bears' belting outfielder had slipped to second place in the last two weeks, but his pace in the seven-day span ending with Wednesday's games skyrocketed him back to the top with a .411 average. He collected nine hits in 19 chances during that time to boost his mark 11 points, and stay well above the .400 that has appeared his minimum so far this season.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

'My Boy Is Dead!' Says Florida Father

Spurs Hunt For Kidnap Murderers

MIAMI, Fla., June 4 (INS)—"I have given up all hopes of finding the child alive."

With this terse sentence, spoken in a quavering voice, the father of kidnaped 5-year-old Jimmy Cash, Jr., today revealed that he and his wife have surrendered to the conviction already expressed by officers that the abductors killed their little victim rather than run the risk of returning him alive.

But even as he voiced his hopelessness of ever seeing his child alive, the father, who paid $10,000 ransom in vain, predicted an early solution to the case.

HUNTS FOR KIDNAPERS

"I feel confident we will find the kidnapers and possibly the body of the child within a week or ten days," he told the reporters.

NEW CLUE TRACED

Meanwhile early today approximately 20 G-men in two automobiles sped from Miami to Fort Lauderdale, on a mysterious mission which immediately revived rumors of an early break in the kidnaping.

From Fort Lauderdale, it was

Father's Ordeal—Weighted under a world of woe, James Bailey Cash, Sr. (center), pursued his agonizing hunt today for his kidnaped son, Jimmy, Jr., in Florida. This is the first photograph of the father, grown hopeless as the terrifying belief grows that the little boy has been murdered by the abductors who collected the $10,000 ransom.

High Pupils 'Heil Hitler' In Medford?

Complaint that Medford High school students greet one another in the streets with the Nazi salute and call "Heil Hitler" as they pass, was made today to Dr. J. Stevens Kadesch, superintendent of schools, in a letter from Herman Etelman, chairman of the Non-Sectarian League of Human Rights.

Etelman also made the charge in person to Ralph L. Kendall, headmaster of the school. Both Dr. Kadesch and Headmaster Kendall told Etelman they had never seen any evidence of such actions.

Etelman's letter to Dr. Kadesch reads:

"It has come to my attention that the pupils of Medford High school are using the Nazi salute and 'Heil Hitler' greeting on the streets of Medford. Although this may have been conceived in fun, I am led to believe that this practice, if not discontinued, is apt to lead to irreparable damage to the younger children's sense of loyalty and patriotism.

"To bear me out in this respect, I refer to an individual instance of a mother who had to counsel her child of nine years to desist from the practice of 'heiling' and saluting Hitler, in imitation of the older children of the high school who were doing the same thing.

"Being an American and a war veteran and also an officer in war veteran organizations, I deem it my duty in the name of true Americanism to bring this matter to your attention."

Italian Royal Pair Visit Tyrol

BOLZANO, Italy, June 4 (AP)—Crown Prince Umberto and his wife, Princess Maria Jose, today began a three-day round of honors to war dead of the Italian Tyrol.

Japs Scorn Plea, Bomb Canton

SHANGHAI, June 4 (INS)—Japan, with deadly scorn, today replied to America's condemnation of civilian bombings by showering the week's third rain of death on Canton.

More than 500 were killed, according to official Chinese estimates, and 1000 were wounded. The week's toll of civilian life in the crowded South China metropolis now stands at 1100.

Adding to the loss of life and the immense destruction, incendiary bombs dropped by thirty Japanese planes started huge fires which spread through the poorer sections of Canton.

The big air fleet roared in from naval bases at sea and began their attack at 10:45 a. m. The raid was said to be the worst so far in the year's Sino-Japanese war.

A few hours later 36 planes dropped bombs on Saichuen. Many were killed in this raid.

Junks Attack Jap Vessel

SHANGHAI, June 4 (AP)—Six large Chinese junks armored with steel plate today attacked a Japanese patrol vessel off the South China coast in what a Japanese naval spokesman called "extension of guerrilla activities to the sea."

The attack, which took place off Kwanghoi, southeast of Canton, was repulsed with the aid of naval aircraft, the spokesman said, three of the junks being set afire and sent to the bottom of the sea and another being disabled. The other two escaped
